Target Caught By Astronauts

... THIRD TIME IS CHARM

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — The eager Gemini 9 pilots caught their target in the sky Friday — but found a space link-up blocked by a shroud that made the target ship look like "an angry alligator" with its jaws agape.

Instead of docking, the Gemini pilots separated and rendezvoused with the target again—then broke away for the night—setting the stage for another rendezvous and a marathon walk in space Saturday.

Stafford Presses Command pilot Thomas P. Stafford repeatedly pressed a suggestion that he try to knock the shroud off the target ship with the docking bar of the Gemini spacecraft. But specialists in Houston and Cape Kennedy said they thought it wouldn't work.

Stafford and copilot Eugene A. Cernan met the no-bumping order with a dejected "okay."

Meanwhile, a study team at Houston was busy examining the shroud problem to see if it would be feasible or worthwhile for Cernan to try to cut the shroud away during his space walk.

Shroud's Purpose The shroud of the ATDA—Augmented Target Docking Adapter dubbed "the glob"—was intended to act as a protective nose cone for the target ship during its rapidly accelerating fight up through the earth's blanket of air.

Explosive bolts exploded releasing the two halves of the nose cone, and springs shoved it part way open, but the wires held it on, blocking the docking collar of the target ship.

Stafford and Cernan performed their four major space pursuit maneuvers with great precision, narrowing the original 640-mile gap between the two craft in 4½ hours.

Looking into the bright moon, they had trouble seeing the ATDA in detailed fashion until they got quite close.

Angry 'Gator' It was then Stafford described the space monster: "We have a weird looking machine up here. It looks like an angry alligator."

Cernan told the ground that the jaws seemed to be closing a little.

The roared into space two days after the target was launched—breaking 17-days of flight frustration with the blast-off.

It was the third time and a charm for Stafford and space rookie Cernan who twice before had climbed dejectedly from the grounded spacecraft when rocket troubles scurried the flight. It was nothing new for Stafford. He had to make three tries to get spaceborne in Gemini 6.

For Cernan, it set the stage for his space walk Saturday—a world record 2½-hour jaunt, part of the time on his own oxygen supply and darting about with his own jet maneuvering unit.

It comes a year and a day after Edward H. White II became the first U.S. spacewalker.

The orbit-adjusting maneuvers closely duplicate the situation that astronauts will have to conquer when they finally win the moon.

That flight plan calls for two astronauts to ride a small space cab to the lunar surface, and then fly it back up again to an orbiting mother ship before the final rocket trip home. In Friday's rehearsal, the Earth played the role of the moon, and the Gemini 9 played the space cab heading to a link-up with the orbiting target.

In other activity, the California Chapter of the University of Nebraska Alumni Association gave the association a gift of $2,000 to be used for a scholarship.

The money was profit made from the annual Homecoming California-to-Nebraska flight, George Bastian, executive secretary of the association, said.

The gift, to which the California Chapter said it hoped to add throughout the years, was presented at a board of directors meeting of the Alumni Association in Lincoln Friday. It will be turned over to the Nebraska Foundation.

A second gift of $1,000 was given by the Kansas City Chapter. The $1,000, an annual gift, goes to the NU athletic department.

Fourth Flight Felbert Maasdam, Burbank, Calif., originator of the Los Angeles-to-Nebraska flights, told the board of directors that plans are going ahead for the fourth annual flight next year.

The award of a lifetime membership to the Alumni Association was also announced at the board of directors meeting. Presentation of the award will be made at the Roundup Luncheon Saturday.

2 Nuns Burn Selves After Militant Threat

Saigon (AP) — Two more Buddhist nuns burned themselves to death Saturday. They were the seventh and eighth suicides this week in the Buddhist campaign to bring down South Viet Nam's military government.

The new self-immolations came after threats from the militant wing of the divided Buddhist movement to wreck the government's precarious truce with them after weeks of civil strife and violence.

Buddhist leaders' public exhortations to the rank and file to stop the fiery suicides—a factor in the overthrow of the Diem government in 1963—apparently were having no effect.

The new suicides were at Nha Trang, 200 miles northeast of Saigon, and here in the capital, where 24-year-old Thich (Venerable) Nu Bao Luan set herself aflame in front of the main Buddhist pagoda in early morning darkness.

A spokesman said Nu Bao Luan left letters protesting the government movement of troops into Hue, the old imperial capital and a Buddhist stronghold 400 miles north of Saigon.

The self-immolation at Nha Trang was in a Buddhist schoolyard. The nun was identified as Dieu Ky, 20.

Both suicides followed another nun's immolation Friday.

U.S. officials, watching the mounting political confusion which has overshadowed the war with the communists for weeks, declined comment.

Friday was the 2,510th birthday of Buddha, the founder of the faith who was called "The Enlightened."

Among the make-or-break factors that could ultimately influence American involvement in the war against the Viet Cong and the social and economic ills of south Viet Nam:

To Order Boycott — Influential Thich (Venerable) Tri Quang, chief of the militants, proclaimed at a news conference in Hue that he will order the Buddhists to boycott any elections held by the government this year. Specifically that meant the vote, scheduled for Sept. 11, to choose a constituent assembly.

Heckled since he led Buddhists into a compromise with government representatives Wednesday that calls for the addition of 10 civilians to the ruling 10-man military directorate, moderate Thich Tam Chau submitted his resignation as head of the Buddhist Institute. He said, "I have failed." A special council will be convened to weigh the resignation.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky sought to sound out religious and political factions on what 10 civilians should be seated. They are supposed to be named by Sunday. The compromise calls for the enlarged directorate to elect a chairman Monday. The current chairman is Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state.

Nu Dieu Binh, a 26-year-old nun, burned herself to death in the courtyard of a small pagoda in Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, where government troops crushed rebel forces May 23. Monks said she left behind a letter for President Johnson charging that "Vietnamese Buddhists were annihilated by your policies in Viet Nam."

In the war, U.S. fliers pressed their renewed offensive against North Viet Nam through low-hanging clouds and allied patrols carried on the hunt for Viet Cong in the south. Korean troops reported they killed 32 of the Red enemy in an overnight fight in the central highlands.

Peculiarities of the Vietnamese scene were reflected in Hue, where Quang denounced Americans, Johnson and the Ky government while Vietnamese troops who moved into that Buddhist stronghold Thursday were arresting some of his followers and seizing rebel arms.

The 4-year-old monk has long been the spokesman for the militant wing of Vietnamese Buddhism. It was reported in Saigon that Chau submitted his resignation after Quang warned him against any further contact with the government.

Tot Strangles In Window A four-year-old Lincoln girl was strangled Friday evening when the window of a neighbor's playhouse fell on her neck, pinning her as she attempted to crawl through the window.

The girl, Kim Neeman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Neeman of 8120 A.

She was found by her brother Randy and some of his neighborhood friends at about 6:30. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Bryan Memorial Hospital, with death occurring sometime between 5:20 and 6:20. Deputy County Attorney Walter Weaver said.

U.S. Offers China No-First-Strike Treaty, North Viet Bombing End

Washington (AP) — The United States has asked Red China about a no-first-strike nuclear agreement and about an end to U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam, provided the Communists make reciprocal moves.

Disclosing this Friday, State Department officials did not say what reaction, if any, has come from the Reds. Both subjects have been sounded out fruitlessly before.

The U.S. soundings were reported to have been made at the latest American-Communist Chinese ambassadorial meeting at Warsaw May 25.

Set Off Third In setting off their third nuclear explosion last month, the Red Chinese advanced as one proclaimed reason for their continued atomic testing what they said had been a U.S. refusal to agree not to strike first in a nuclear attack. The Peking regime first made such a proposal in 1964.

State Department officials said Friday that the Red Chinese have now been asked if they would halt their nuclear blasts if the United States would join in a no-first-strike agreement.

The Peking regime has consistently refused so far to sign the limited atomic test-ban treaty adhered to by all other major powers except France.

Sought Word On the question of bombing of North Viet Nam, Washington from time to time has inquired what Hanoi would do if the American air attacks stopped. U.S. diplomats have sought word that the North Vietnamese would quit sending troops into South Viet Nam.

State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey declined Friday to discuss the latest U.S. probe on this matter specifically, but said again that North Vietnamese leaders have shown no interest in making a deal.

In other activity, the California Chapter of the University of Nebraska Alumni Association gave the association a gift of $2,000 to be used for a scholarship.

The money was profit made from the annual Homecoming California-to-Nebraska flight, George Bastian, executive secretary of the association, said.

The gift, to which the California Chapter said it hoped to add throughout the years, was presented at a board of directors meeting of the Alumni Association in Lincoln Friday. It will be turned over to the Nebraska Foundation.

A second gift of $1,000 was given by the Kansas City Chapter. The $1,000, an annual gift, goes to the NU athletic department.

Fourth Flight

Felber Maasdam, Burbank, Calif., originator of the Los Angeles-to-Nebraska flights, told the board of directors that plans are going ahead for the fourth annual flight next year.

The award of a lifetime membership to the Alumni Association was also announced at the board of directors meeting. Presentation of the award will be made at the Roundup Luncheon Saturday.

2 Nuns Burn Selves After Militant Threat

Saigon (P)—Two more Buddhist nuns burned themselves to death Saturday. They were the seventh and eighth suicides this week in the Buddhist campaign to bring down South Viet Nam's military government.

The new self-immolations came after threats from the militant wing of the divided Buddhist movement to wreck the government's precarious truce with them after weeks of civil strife and violence.

Buddhist leaders' public exhortations to the rank and file to stop the fiery suicides—a factor in the overthrow of the Diem government in 1963—apparently were having no effect.

The new suicides were at Nha Trang, 200 miles northeast of Saigon, and here in the capital, where 24-year-old Thich (Venerable) Nu Bao Luan set herself aflame in front of the main Buddhist pagoda in early morning darkness.

A spokesman said Nu Bao Luan left letters protesting the government movement of troops into Hue, the old imperial capital and a Buddhist stronghold 400 miles north of Saigon.

The self immolation at Nha Trang was in a Buddhist schoolyard. The nun was identified as Dieu Ky, 20.

Both suicides followed an other nun's immolation Friday.

U.S. officials, watching the mounting political confusion which has overshadowed the war with the communists for weeks, declined comment.

Friday was the 2,510th birthday of Buddha, the founder of the faith who was called "The Enlightened."

Among the make-or-break factors that could ultimately influence American involvement in the war against the Viet Cong and the social and economic ills or south Viet Nam:

To Order Boycott

—Influential Thich (Venerable) Tri Quang, chief of the militants, proclaimed at a news conference in Hue that he will order the Buddhists to boycott any elections held by the government this year. Specifically that meant the vote, scheduled for Sept. 11, to choose a constituent assembly.

—Heckled since he led Buddhists into a compromise with government representatives Wednesday that calls for the addition of 10 civilians to the ruling 10-man military directorate, moderate Thich Tam Chau submitted his resignation as head of the Buddhist Institute. He said, "I have failed." A special council will be convoked to weigh the resignation.

—Premier Nguyen Cao Ky sought to sound out religious and political factions on what 10 civilians should be seated. They are supposed to be named by Sunday. The compromise calls for the enlarged directorate to elect a chairman Monday. The current chairman is Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state.

—Nu Dieu Binh, a 26-year-old nun, burned herself to death in the courtyard of a small pagoda in Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, where government troops crushed rebel forces May 23. Monks said she left behind a letter for President Johnson charging that "Vietnamese Buddhists were annihilated by your policies in Viet Nam."

In the war, U.S. fliers pressed their renewed offensive against North Viet Nam through low-hanging clouds and allied patrols carried on the hunt for Viet Cong in the south. Korean troops reported they killed 32 of the Red enemy in an overnight fight in the central highlands.

Peculiarities of the Vietnamese scene were reflected in Hue, where Quang denounced Americans, Johnson and the Ky government while Vietnamese troops who moved into that Buddhist stronghold Thursday were arresting some of his followers and seizing rebel arms.

The 44-year-old monk has long been the spokesman for the militant wing of Vietnamese Buddhism. It was reported in Saigon that Chau submitted his resignation after Quang warned him against any further contact with the government.

Tot Strangles In Window

A four-year-old Lincoln girl was strangled Friday evening when the window of a neighbor's playhouse fell on her neck, pinning her as she attempted to crawl through the window.

The girl, Kim Neeman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Neeman of 8120 A.

She was found by her brother Randy and some of his neighborhood friends at about 6:30. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Bryan Memorial Hospital, with death occurring sometime between 5:20 and 6:20, Deputy County Attorney Walter Weaver said.

Kim is survived by her parents, her brother Randy, and her grandparents, Mrs. Vera Neeman and Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Roshon, all of Lincoln.

Sought Word

On the question of bombing of North Viet Nam, Washington from time to time has inquired what Hanoi would do if the American air attacks stopped. U.S. diplomats have sought word that the North Vietnamese would quit sending troops into South Viet Nam.

State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey declined Friday to discuss the latest U.S. probe on this matter specifically, but said again that North Vietnamese leaders have shown no interest in making a deal.

The State Department spokesman added:

"It has consistently been the U.S. position that we would be prepared to consider reciprocal actions, including questions related to bombing of North Viet Nam, provided North Viet Nam gave some indication of what reciprocal actions they would take relating to their military infiltration and actions in the south and the presence of regular North Vietnamese military personnel in South Viet Nam."

China To Purge All Against Mao

Tokyo (AP)—Communist China warned Saturday that even its highest and oldest leaders will be struck down mercilessly if they oppose Mao Tse-tung.

The warning, carried by Peking People's Daily, came the day after powerful Peking Mayor Peng Chen was dismissed as first secretary of the Peking party central committee, post he has held since 1955.

People's Daily said: "Anyone who opposes Chairman Mao Tse-tung, opposes Mao Tse-tung's thoughts, opposes the party central leadership, opposes the proletarian dictatorship, opposes the correct way of socialism, whoever that may be, however high may be the position and however old his standing, he will be struck down by the entire party and by the entire people."

The newspaper said people danced in the streets of Peking when the municipal dismissals were announced.

It also said, "Some leaders of the former Peking municipal party community were not Marxist-Leninists but revisionists—the most horrendous of sins in party eyes."

Peng, 67, has been mayor of Peking and a member of the Communist Party politburo and secretariat since 1951.

Named to replace him was Li Hsueh-feng, 60, also a member of the party secretariat and first secretary of the party's north China bureau.

Peking Radio said the party leadership also will push its cultural reform at Peking University. Its President Lu Ping and Peng Pei-yun, a university official, were removed from their posts as secretary and deputy secretary of the university party committee.

Both were rapped earlier this week for their "bourgeois ideology" and "attempting to lead the university in the wrong direction in opposition to Mao's teaching."

Charged with steering the university back on the correct road to Maoism is Chang Chung-hsien, who was named Lu's replacement.

On Mao's Orders

The People's Daily editorial made it plain the purges were being carried out on Mao's orders.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Peking that students staged mass demonstrations there Friday to approve the changes. It said they pledged to push ahead with the "cultural revolution."

People's Daily said the dismissed Peking municipal party committee had been the seat of an "anti-party, anti-socialist counter-revolutionary group which had been exposed during the socialist cultural revolution."

Peng was considered one of the most powerful men of China. He ranked with Defense Minister Lin Biao and party General Secretary Teng Hsiao-ping next to the older three top men, Mao, President Liu Shao-chi and Premier Chou En-lai.

There have been indications that the current internal purge, spearheaded by military newspapers, was directed by Lin Biao and a power struggle might have loomed behind a facade of an ideological campaign designed for public consumption.

Governors Want State Role In Auto Safety Programs

Washington (AP)—A group of governors asserted Friday that the states must play a major role in auto safety programs. President Johnson agreed but said there must be uniform federal vehicle standards for the whole nation.

The governors subsequently accepted his views.

"I cannot stress too strongly the need for such standards," the President told six governors and representatives of 10 other states. "The only alternative is unthinkable—50 different standards for 50 different states. That will breed chaos. None of you here want that."

Federal Matter

While Gov. George Romney of Michigan emphasized the need for "meaningful state consultation" in setting standards, the other governors agreed with the President that new-car standards are essentially a matter for the federal government.

The governors, who represented the Governors' Conference traffic safety subcommittee, met in the morning with Commerce Department officials and later exchanged views with representatives of congressional committees considering administration proposals on auto and highway safety.

Gov. Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming, head of the delegation, said the governors supported the administration proposal for federal standards for new cars. But, he said, they were chiefly interested in guaranteeing the states play a major part in setting highway standards and in dealing with such things as used cars and drivers' licenses.

Role Spelled Out

"We would like to have spelled out in the legislation the role the states are going to play," Hansen told newsmen.

Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas suggested that a council be formed with each state having one member and the secretary of commerce designating one member to consider safety standards for used cars and highways.

It would take a majority of such a group to establish a standard and states would then have three years to put the standard into effect, he suggested. If a state didn't approve it, the federal administrator of the program could order it into effect.

UP Owns 10% Of Rio Grande Stock

Denver (AP)—The Union Pacific Railroad disclosed Friday it owns nearly 10% of Denver and Rio Grande Railroad stock.

UP President Edd Bailey wrote Denver Mayor Tom Currigan that the stock ownership represents an investment of more than $12 million.

The Rio Grande is opposing the proposed merger of the Union Pacific and Rock Island Railroads which is the subject of an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing in Chicago.

Bailey said in his letter to Currigan:

"Our confidence in the present management and the future potential of the Rio Grande is such that we have no intention of disposing of this investment in the foreseeable future."

Defeated Bosch To Contest Voting

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP)—Juan Bosch said Friday night he will contest the validity of the Dominican presidential election in which he suffered a stunning defeat by conservative Joaquin Balaguer.

He said a commission of lawyers will begin gathering evidence of fraud to back up his challenge. He urged his backers to be "calm and confident" until the investigation is completed. He has until June 10 to make a formal challenge.

Official observers from 21 Western Hemisphere nations have already proclaimed the elections fair and honest.

Bosch's announcement came as Balaguer's plurality spared past 230,000 votes and appeared to be giving his Reformist Party control of Congress as well.

Final unofficial results released by the national electoral junta gave Balaguer 745,409 to 517,784 for Juan Bosch. Balaguer's total was 56.3%.

The results showed colleagues on the Balaguer ticket ahead in 17 of 22 provinces, with 4 others unreported. This was taken as an indication that Balaguer will have, as did Bosch in 1962, complete control of the two house congress.

Communists, who suffered a raking defeat in the election, mounted knots of agitators and sent them roving through downtown streets in what appeared to be a futile effort to arouse a large-scale protest demonstration. Three of them were slightly wounded when police tried to disperse one group that attacked with rocks.

Guardsmen Leaving Saturday For Training At Camp Ripley

By The Associated Press

Nebraska National Guardsmen head for Minnesota Saturday for an earlier-than-usual summer encampment and a test of their accelerated training program.

Guardsmen from the 67th Infantry Brigade Mechanized will spend two weeks in field training at Camp Ripley. In years past the session has been about two months later.

The brigade is made up of four Nebraska battalions and one from Iowa. It will train at its full strength of about 14,700 officers and men. Even recruits on their six months basic training will be present in proxy as Army Reservists from all over the United States fill their positions. An estimated 1,100 reservists will be training with the Nebraska and Iowa guardsmen.

The 67th Brigade was one of eight Guard organizations tagged by the Defense Department as Select Reserve Forces. It has been on an accelerated training program since October of last year. Unit training assemblies were stepped up from 18 to 72 per year.

The Ripley encampment will test the efficiency of the brigade's accelerated training and determine whether it meets the Defense Department's prescribed level of readiness as a Select Reserve Force organization.

'Cities Facing Crisis Unless Unicam Acts'

The League of Nebraska Municipalities Friday warned that local government in Nebraska "faces a financial crisis" unless the Legislature carries out its special session assignment.

Gov. Frank Morrison has called the lawmakers into session starting Monday to approve legislation requiring foreign (out-of-state) corporation stock to be assessed at market value.

The State Supreme Court ruled recently that such stock must be assessed at book value, and the net effect would be a reduction in tax revenue from this source.

To Local Government

Five-sixths of the tax involved is distributed to local government, including school districts, counties and municipalities, the league statement noted.

"The only replacement for this loss of revenue is an additional property tax. This shift of tax burden affects every community in the state."

Similar views were voiced at Holdrege by Richard C. Brown of Holdrege, executive secretary of the Nebraska School Boards Association.

Virtually every school district in Nebraska has a stake in the special session, Brown said, noting that one-third of the intangible tax revenue goes to the school district in which the owner resides.

While the impact of the loss of intangible tax revenue under the Supreme Court ruling would differ in various communities, Brown estimated that in many school districts the shift, unless reversed, would mean an increase of one mill in the tax on tangible property simply to offset the tax loss to the school district.

When the loss to municipalities, counties and state is included, an increase of as much as three mills might be necessary in some localities, he estimated.

Supreme Court To Reconsider Water Dispute

State Supreme Court judges agreed Friday to reconsider the courts ruling in a water dispute between irrigators and ranchers in the flat Creek Basin of Northwest Nebraska.

The high court scheduled hearing of new arguments in the case for next Friday.

The tribunal in April upheld a permanent injunction issued by Sioux District Judge Albert Crites preventing eight irrigators on the Upper Hat Creek from halting the flow of the creek to the detriment of four downstream ranch families.

However, the court said the injunction is to apply only to water needed for the ranch cattle which graze on riparian land, that which includes a portion of the creek bed. It ordered further hearings in district court to determine the extent of the riparian land.

The eight irrigators asked for a rehearing. They said the court erred in finding that the riparian water rights of the ranchers are superior to the statutory rights of the irrigators, who remove water from the creek in accordance with state permits.

Filipino Body Okays Troops For Viet Nam

Manila (AP)—The Philippine senate cleared the way Saturday for President Ferdinand Marcos to dispatch 2,000 soldiers to South Viet Nam. The detachment will consist of 1,000 engineers and 1,000 security troops.

After long debate, the senators voted 15-8 for appropriation of $8.8 million to finance the troop movement.

The Philippines will thus join the United States, South Korea, Australia and New Zealand as military allies of South Viet Nam in the war against the communists.

The engineers are to build civic action projects, such as roads and irrigation canals, while the security troops stand watch against the Viet Cong.

The president's position is that it is far easier and cheaper to fight communism in Viet Nam than to wait until—as when the Red Huns were in rebellion after World War II—it reaches the shores of the Philippines.

McClelland Will Receive Sentence Monday Morning

Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin will sentence Charles E. McClelland at 11 a.m. Monday on the first-degree murder charge to which he has pleaded guilty.

McClelland is charged in connection with the fatal stabbing of another inmate, Emory Thompson, in the cell block of the Nebraska Penal Complex Nov. 28, 1965.

McClelland, who is serving two life sentences for the 1947 slayings of Mr. and Mrs. Robert May of Alexandria, Va., whose bodies were found near Boys Town, faces either another life sentence or death in the electric chair.

In 1954, McClelland was acquitted of first-degree murder by a Lancaster District Court jury in connection with the bludgeoning slaying of a prison guard.

Guardsmen Leaving Saturday For Training At Camp Ripley

By The Associated Press

Nebraska National Guardsmen head for Minnesota Saturday for an earlier-than-usual summer encampment and a test of their accelerated training program.

Guardsmen from the 67th Infantry Brigade Mechanized will spend two weeks in field training at Camp Ripley. In years past the session has been about two months later.

4 State Battalions

The brigade is made up of four Nebraska battalions and one from Iowa. It will train at its full strength of about 4,700 officers and men. Even recruits on their six months basic training will be present in proxy as Army Reservists from all over the United States fill their positions. An estimated 1,100 reservists will be training with the Nebraska and Iowa guardsmen.

The 67th Brigade was one of eight Guard organizations tagged by the Defense Department as Select Reserve Forces. It has been on an accelerated training program since October of last year. Unit training assemblies were stepped up from 48 to 72 per year.

The Ripley encampment will test the efficiency of the brigade's accelerated training and determine whether it meets the Defense Department's prescribed level of readiness as a Select Reserve Force organization.

'Cities Facing Crisis Unless Unicam Acts'

The League of Nebraska Municipalities Friday warned that local government in Nebraska "faces a financial crisis" unless the Legislature carries out its special session assignment.

Gov. Frank Morrison has called the lawmakers into session starting Monday to approve legislation requiring foreign (out-of-state) corporation stock to be assessed at market value.

The State Supreme Court ruled recently that such stock must be assessed at book value, and the net effect would be a reduction in tax revenue from this source.

To Local Government

Five-sixths of the tax involved is distributed to local government, including school districts, counties and municipalities, the league statement noted.

"The only replacement for this loss of revenue is an additional property tax. This shift of tax burden affects every community in the state."

Similar views were voiced at Holdrege by Richard C. Brown of Holdrege, executive secretary of the Nebraska School Boards Association.

Virtually every school district in Nebraska has a stake in the special session, Brown said, noting that one-third of the intangible tax revenue goes to the school district in which the owner resides.

While the impact of the loss of intangible tax revenue under the Supreme Court ruling would differ in various communities, Brown estimated that in many school districts the shift, unless reversed, would mean an increase of one mill in the tax on tangible property simply to offset the tax loss to the school district.

When the loss to municipalities, counties and state is included, an increase of as much as three mills might be necessary in some localities, he estimated.

Merchandise Stolen From Model Home

Merchandise valued at $676 was taken from a model home at 531 Teakwood, according to police, who said Friday they were checking fingerprints found at the scene.

Taken from the house, which is owned by the Krueger Construction Co., were TV sets, radios, record players, sterling silver and a coffee service.

Supreme Court To Reconsider Water Dispute

State Supreme Court judges agreed Friday to reconsider the courts ruling in a water dispute between the irrigators and ranchers in the Hat Creek Basin of Northwest Nebraska.

The high court scheduled hearing of new arguments in the case for next Friday.

The tribunal in April upheld a permanent injunction issued by Sioux District Judge Albert Crites preventing eight irrigators on the Upper Hat Creek from halting the flow of the creek to the detriment of four downstream ranch families.

However, the court said the injunction is to apply only to water needed for the ranch cattle which graze on riparian land, that which includes a portion of the creek bed. It ordered further hearings in district court to determine the extent of the riparian land.

The eight irrigators asked for a rehearing. They said the court erred in finding that the riparian water rights of the ranchers are superior to the statutory rights of the irrigators, who remove water from the creek in accordance with state permits.

Filipino Body Okays Troops For Viet Nam

Manila (AP)—The Philippine senate cleared the way Saturday for President Ferdinand Marcos to dispatch 2,000 soldiers to South Viet Nam. The detachment will consist of 1,000 engineers and 1,000 security troops.

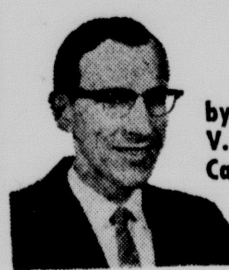

After long debate, the senators voted 15-8 for appropriation of $8.8 million to finance the troop movement.

The Philippines will thus join the United States, South Korea, Australia and New Zealand as military allies of South Viet Nam in the war against the communists.

The engineers are to build civic action projects, such as roads and irrigation canals, while the security troops stand watch against the Viet Cong.

The president's position is that it is far easier and cheaper to fight communism in Viet Nam than to wait until—as when the Red Huns were in rebellion after World War II—it reaches the shores of the Philippines.

Park Site Development Stressed In Survey

By LUCILLE HUTGHINSON
Star Staff Writer

The principal need for funds in Lincoln's recreation picture is for the development of existing park sites, according to the National Recreation and Park Association survey.

The study of Lincoln's parks and recreation indicated that funds for the development of all types of parks should be adequate to employ competent landscape architects to design all sites before they are developed.

Government money that is available also should be used by local governments, according to a recommendation of the final report distributed here Friday.

The report will be interpreted at a special public luncheon Thursday at the Lincoln Center.

Study-staff members of the National Recreation and Park Association, Mrs. Verna Rensvold and G. Leslie Lynch, will make the presentation.

Meets Standard

The survey reports that Lincoln and Lancaster County has a total area in recreation lands which meets the standard for the expected population in 1985. But, the report says, "the problem is that the sites are not properly distributed."

However, Mrs. Rensvold and Lynch indicate that "with comprehensive planning and rearrangement of the districts as the population increases, the situation as to this type of area can be greatly improved without the acquisition of much additional acreage and excessive cost."

As for indoor recreation facilities, Lincolnites are told "to keep in mind constantly that the indoor recreation facilities should be provided in the public schools."

In addition to the study of recreation areas and facilities including recommendations on numbers of tennis courts, golf courses and other facilities, the survey staff examined the administration of parks and recreation in the city and county, the recreation program—both indoor and outdoor, personnel, financial considerations, and the community centers.

Suggestion Discounted

When a preliminary report was presented earlier to the survey steering committee, members discounted a suggestion to convert the City Park and Recreation Advisory Board into a policymaking group.

The final report omitted the suggestion, but emphasized the need for a close relationship between the park and recreation staff and the public, and between the staff and the governing authority.

"Experience has shown that this relationship is best realized when the board is composed of outstanding citizens who are leaders in the community," the report said.

Recommendations in the report included expansion of existing activities in the recreation program along with a better seasonal balance and development of some new events.

The report also blamed the city's failure to provide adequate recreation for the recreation-dominated community center programs. Community centers were urged to get out of the recreation business so they could expend their efforts on handling social problems for which each was created.

3 New Positions

The professional park and recreation officials also suggested adding three new positions in the City Recreation department, along with higher salaries to attract "the best people."

The study, sponsored by the Lincoln Community Council, was financed with a $6,500 grant from the Lincoln Foundation.

Sigler Tells Senators Of Budgetary Problems

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska Penal Complex Warden Maurice Sigler informed the Legislative Council's budget study committee Friday night that his budget for the current biennium will be $217,660 short if he grants salary increases to guards approved by the 1965 Legislature.

Sigler said he wants to place the authorized $350 a month minimum salary in effect July 1, as scheduled. The starting rate is now $309.

Budget Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings told Sigler that the salary decision is an administrative one which the warden will have to make.

Only Recommend

Study committee, Sen. Marvel said, can only recommend appropriate action to the 1967 Legislature on the evidence presented by Sigler. Its recommendations will be contained in a report to the Legislature next November.

Institutions Director

George Morris asked Marvel whether the committee would agree to back Sigler in an effort to obtain a supplementary appropriation to fill the $217,660 void early in the 1967 session.

"You ask an impossible question," Marvel told Morris.

The committee, he said, is strictly a study unit and "in no position to make policy decisions... or deals" in relation to anticipated budgetary action by the next regular session of the Legislature.

The $217,660 shortage resulted from unanticipated reductions in income for the Penal Complex institutional cash fund Sigler said, and from overestimates of the cash fund contained in the 1965-67 appropriations bill.

The overestimate amounted to about $70,000.

Largest income reduction is an estimated $20,000 which will result from discontinued work details by minimum custody inmates due to a decrease in inmate population.

Savings resulting from the reduction in inmates have been eaten up by inflation, particularly a heavy increase in the cost of food, Sigler said.

Sigler described the guard salary situation as "real critical."

The $309 starting wage does not always permit the Penal Complex to hire guards with minimum qualifications and the turnover rate amounts to about 25%, the warden said.

Some 102 guards have changed in the first 10 months of the 1965-67 fiscal biennium.

"We lure what we can get," he said, and that creates the potential for "a dangerous situation."

more," Sorensen said. "When Ray Johnson (State Auditor) handled the warrants, we had a steady flow. We sat here last week with nothing to do, expecting the warrants to come in."

"Now there's nothing but chaos," he said.

He said he would refuse to sign the warrants "if I wanted to be mean" but he would process them so warrant vendors will not be injured.

He said the improperly dated warrants will cause havoc with the records of county treasurers, who have already "closed their books for May."

Administrative Services Director Willard Townsend said there will be a "steady flow of warrants every day" once the new fiscal operation is perfected.

Day-By-Day Basis

He said checks to those persons providing services to the state (called warrant vendors) will be issued on a day-by-day basis while payroll checks will continue to be processed once a month.

"We've got troubles now with the equipment and programs resulting from the changeover," Townsend said. "It should be a matter of days, maybe even hours, before we settle down to a routine."

The new Department and its electronic computer handled the state's vendor and payroll warrant operations for the first time last month.

If the salary increases are granted July 1, the Penal Complex will experience financial problems from its $217,000 shortage during the last six or seven weeks of the current biennium, it was estimated.

The 1967 Legislature will have been in session several months by the time that period occurs.

Adjustment

Legislative fiscal analyst John Quigley said the Penal Complex problem might be met by adjustment of general fund figures within the Department of Public Institutions budget as a result of the unanticipated receipt of hundreds of thousands of dollars from federal medicare funds.

If that process were considered, and followed, he said, there may be no need for a supplementary appropriation by the 1967 Legislature.

Morris also informed the committee that he will seek higher starting salaries for ward aides at state hospitals next year and propose construction of a new medical-surgical building at the Lincoln State Hospital.

The Lincoln facility will probably fail to qualify for medicare participation this year due to inadequate facilities, he said.

Ward aides now begin at $200 a month. A $250 minimum is now required to fill vacancies, Morris said, and a $270 figure may be recommended to the 1967 session.

Flood Of Warrants Causes New Blast By Treasurer

State Treasurer Fred Sorensen continued his running feud with the State Department of Administrative Services Friday.

Sorensen complained that nearly 2,800 state warrants were received by his office Friday although they were dated May 31.

He said his staff will have to launch a crash program to process the warrants so they will be sent to recipients without too much delay.

Sorensen said state warrants should flow through his office steadily to avoid an end-of-the-month crush.

School Board Action Topic At LEA Meet

The executive committee of the Lincoln Education Association (LEA) Friday met to discuss the Board of Education's rejection of LEA's request for a meeting on teacher salary levels.

Executive secretary Ely Feistner said the committee decided to take up with the general membership the board's refusal and also to discuss the PTA Council's criticism of the School Board on the matter.

He said members would be sent some information before the membership meeting, which is set for sometime next week.

LEA, an organization of teachers, is dissatisfied with salary levels approved for next year by the School Board. Salaries were raised an average of five per cent.

Recruits Over 50 Wanted In VISTA Work

Omaha (AP)—The Omaha Kiwanis Club was told Friday that Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) is particularly anxious to recruit persons over 50 for the agency's anti-poverty campaign.

"They have proved to be experienced enough and patient enough to handle even the most frustrating problems that poverty presents," said Glenn Ferguson, 37-year-old director of the 2,500-member corps of volunteers who work in impoverished and deprived areas of the nation.

Ferguson said 14% of VISTA volunteers are over 50, some 10% are over 60 and 4% are over 70.

Ferguson was in Omaha for a recruitment drive, seeking volunteers to spend a year in VISTA service, for which they will receive a minimum subsistence allowance plus a stipend of $50 a month which the government will turn over to them when their service is ended.

Park Site Development Stressed In Survey

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

The principal need for funds in Lincoln's recreation picture is for the development of existing park sites, according to the National Recreation and Park Association survey.

The study of Lincoln's parks and recreation indicated that funds for the development of all types of parks should be adequate to employ competent landscape architects to design all sites before they are developed.

Government money that is available also should be used by local governments, according to a recommendation of the final report distributed here Friday.

The report will be interpreted at a special public luncheon Thursday at the Lincoln Center.

Study-staff members of the National Recreation and Park Association, Mrs. Verna Rensvold and G. Leslie Lynch, will make the presentation.

Meets Standard
The survey reports that Lincoln and Lancaster County has a total area in recreation lands which meets the standard for the expected population in 1985. But, the report says, "the problem is that the sites are not properly distributed."

However, Mrs. Rensvold and Lynch indicate that "with comprehensive planning and rearrangement of the districts as the population increases, the situation as to this type of area can be greatly improved without the acquisition

As for indoor recreation facilities, Lincolniters are told "to keep in mind constantly that the indoor recreation facilities should be provided in the public schools."

In addition to the study of recreation areas and facilities including recommendations on numbers of tennis courts, golf courses and other facilities, the survey staff examined the administration of parks and recreation in the city and county, the recreation program—both indoor and outdoor, personnel, financial considerations, and the community centers.

Suggestion Discounted

When a preliminary report was presented earlier to the survey steering committee, members discounted a suggestion to convert the City Park and Recreation Advisory Board into a policymaking group.

The final report omitted the suggestion, but emphasized the need for a close relationship between the park and recreation staff and the public, and between the staff and the governing authority.

"Experience has shown that this relationship is best realized when the board is composed of outstanding citizens who are leaders in the community," the report said.

Recommendations in the report included expansion of existing activities in the recreation program along with a better seasonal balance and development of some new events.

The report also blamed the city's failure to provide adequate recreation for the recreation-dominated community center programs. Community centers were urged to get out of the recreation business so they could expend their efforts on handling social problems for which each was created.

3 New Positions

The professional park and recreation officials also suggested adding three new positions in the City Recreation department, along with higher salaries to attract "the best people."

The study, sponsored by the Lincoln Community Council, was financed with a $6,500 grant from the Lincoln Foundation.

Sigler Tells Senators Of Budgetary Problems

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska Penal Complex Warden Maurice Sigler informed the Legislative Council's budget study committee Friday night that his budget for the current biennium will be $217,660 short if he grants salary increases to guards approved by the 1965 Legislature.

Sigler said he wants to place the authorized $350 a month minimum salary in effect July 1, as scheduled. The starting rate is now $309.

Budget Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings told Sigler that the salary decision is an administrative one which the warden will have to make.

Only Recommend
The study committee, Sen. Marvel said, can only recommend appropriate action to the 1967 Legislature on the evidence presented by Sigler. Its recommendations will be contained in a report to the Legislature next November.

State Institutions Director

SIGLER . . . seeks guard salary hike.

MARVEL . . . says decision administrative.

George Morris asked Marvel whether the committee would agree to back Sigler in an effort to obtain a supplementary appropriation to fill the $217,000 void early in the 1967 session.

"You ask an impossible question," Marvel told Morris.

The committee, he said, is strictly a study unit and "in no position to make policy decisions . . . or deals" in relation to anticipated budgetary action by the next regular session of the Legislature.

The $217,660 shortage resulted from unanticipated reductions in income for the Penal Complex institutional cash fund Sigler said, and from overestimates of the cash fund contained in the 1965-67 appropriations bill.

The overestimate amounted to about $70,000.

Largest income reduction is an estimated $90,000 which will result from discontinued work details by minimum custody inmates due to a decrease in inmate population. Savings resulting from the reduction in inmates have been eaten up by inflation, particularly a heavy increase in the cost of food, Sigler said.

Sigler described the guard salary situation as "real critical."

The $309 starting wage does not always permit the Penal Complex to hire guards with minimum qualifications and the turnover rate amounts to about 25%, the warden said. Some 102 guards have changed in the first 10 months of the 1965-67 fiscal biennium.

"We hire what we can get," he said, and that creates the potential for "a dangerous situation."

If the salary increases are granted July 1, the Penal Complex will experience financial problems from its $217,000 shortage during the last six or seven weeks of the current biennium, it was estimated.

The 1967 Legislature will have been in session several months by the time that period occurs.

Adjustment

Legislative fiscal analyst John Quigley said the Penal Complex problem might be met by adjustment of general fund figures within the Department of Public Institutions budget as a result of the unanticipated receipt of hundreds of thousands of dollars from federal medicare funds.

If that process were considered, and followed, he said, there may be no need for a supplementary appropriation by the 1967 Legislature.

Morris also informed the committee that he will seek higher starting salaries for ward aides at state hospitals next year and propose construction of a new medical-surgical building at the Lincoln State Hospital.

The Lincoln facility will probably fail to qualify for medicare participation this year due to inadequate facilities, he said.

Ward aides now begin at $200 a month. A $250 minimum is now required to fill vacancies, Morris said, and a $270 figure may be recommended to the 1967 session.

Recruits Over 50 Wanted In VISTA Work

Omaha (P)—The Omaha Kiwanis Club was told Friday that Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) is particularly anxious to recruit persons over 50 for the agency's anti-poverty campaign.

"They have proved to be experienced enough and patient enough to handle even the most frustrating problems that poverty presents," said Glenn Ferguson, 37-year-old director of the 2,500-member corps of volunteers who work in impoverished and deprived areas of the nation.

Ferguson said 14% of VISTA volunteers are over 50, some 10% are over 60 and 4% are over 70.

Ferguson was in Omaha for a recruitment drive, seeking volunteers to spend a year in VISTA service, for which they will receive a minimum subsistence allowance plus a stipend of $50 a month which the government will turn over to them when their service is ended.

Flood Of Warrants Causes New Blast By Treasurer

State Treasurer Fred Sorensen continued his running feud with the State Department of Administrative Services Friday.

Sorensen complained that nearly 2,800 state warrants were received by his office Friday although they were dated May 31.

He said his staff will have to launch a crash program to process the warrants so they will be sent to recipients without too much delay.

Sorensen said state warrants should flow through his office steadily to avoid an end-of-the-month crush.

School Board Action Topic At LEA Meet

The executive committee of the Lincoln Education Association (LEA) Friday met to discuss the Board of Education's rejection of LEA's request for a meeting on teacher salary levels.

Executive secretary Ely Feistner said the committee decided to take up with the general membership the board's refusal and also to discuss the PTA Council's criticism of the School Board on the matter.

He said members would be sent some information before the membership meeting, which is set for sometime next week.

LEA, an organization of teachers, is dissatisfied with salary levels approved for next year by the School Board. Salaries were raised an average of five per cent.

more," Sorensen said. "When Ray Johnson (State Auditor) handled the warrants, we had a steady flow. We sat here last week with nothing to do, expecting the warrants to come in."

"Now there's nothing but chaos."

He said he would refuse to sign the warrants "if I wanted to be mean" but he will process them so warrant vendors will not be injured.

He said the improperly dated warrants will cause havoc with the records of county treasurers, who have already "closed their books for May."

Administrative Services Director Willard Townsend said there will be a "steady flow of warrants every day" once the new fiscal operation is perfected.

Day-By-Day Basis

He said checks to those persons providing services to the state (called warrant vendors) will be issued on a day-by-day basis while payroll checks will continue to be processed once a month.

"We've got troubles now with the equipment and programs resulting from the changeover," Townsend said. "It should be a matter of days, maybe even hours, before we settle down to a routine."

The new Department and its electronic computer handled the state's vendor and payroll warrant operations for the first time last month.

Summary Of Conditions

A weak stationary front located from northern Wisconsin through central Minnesota to northwest Nebraska and central Wyoming will sag southward behind a low center moving through eastern Nebraska into northwest Kansas. South of this front is warm, humid weather with scattered thunderstorms, some of them heavy. In western Nebraska partly cloudy skies are expected with some cooling behind the front. Temperatures should be cooler in central and eastern Nebraska as the front drops southward. Temperatures will remain warm and humid in extreme southeast Nebraska and west Iowa with cooling Saturday evening.

Scenes Are Changing

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Various groups have toured the Lincoln Air Force Base in the past year, all of them looking toward some future use of the sprawling facilities now virtually abandoned by the Strategic Air Command. Many of the military could not doubt write some stirring accounts in comparing the calm that now prevails at LAFB with the suspense and activity that once pervaded the area.

Some of those who have toured the base have gotten the same impression that many of the military must feel. Take, for instance, General Arnold School which the Lincoln Board of Education is strongly considering closing for the 1966-67 term. The school will close for a very simple reason—no children to attend its classes. Those who have toured the base will see something rather sad in this for General Arnold is quite a nice structure, modern in all respects and even the winner of an award for architectural excellence. Not long ago it was a beehive of activity with children of all description filling its halls and classrooms.

And now the school will be empty while there are children in other lands and even in other parts of our country that dearly need but have no such facility as General Arnold. Perhaps some day the school will be re-opened when and if there are again a number of families at the base but until then it will be as silent as a tomb in contrast to the many voices that once echoed through it.

It is not a situation in which someone is to blame; it is just the product of our changing times. The base and all its facilities were a proud part of a military organization that has changed in character. Because it has changed, its needs are different and the Lincoln base no longer fits the new pattern.

In some other areas, things have not changed so much. Out across Nebraska there is, as there was last year, another threat of drought. Our concern this year is the same as it was at this time last year. Already, some cattle are being put on hay because the grazing lands have not produced sufficient grass for them. Some cattlemen are already thinning their herds because they lack the feed to hold their herds without the help of nature. The first cutting of alfalfa has been completed and is reported to be less than half of expectations. But it got worse last year than it is right now and the state still pulled out of it. It is hoped that the same relief that came last year comes again this year in the form of drenching rains.

Just as things in agriculture reached the really critical stage, as corn was denting early and wheat was prematurely heading out, the rains came last year. Some crops still were hurt but the harvest still turned out good. It was not long before the state faced a new problem, that of floods. The pastures took on a coat of green and cattle once again roamed the countryside rather than huddled in the feedlot. Last year, in fact, was probably worse at this stage than things are now because there was a substantial shortage of sub-soil moisture. We are worried now but the coming month is the critical one and we can only hope that somebody up there is looking out for us.

Change is apparently in order in the life of Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton. Governor Scranton, with his term of public office growing to a close, has announced in convincing fashion that he will never again run for a public office. History, of course, is full of such statements by men and women who went on to serve their nation in important ways.

The statement by Governor Scranton, however, had a ring of finality and determination to it. Whatever the future does bring, the governor seems firm at this time to retire from public life. It would be interesting if Scranton had explained the basis for his decision.

For some men, public life seems to have an appeal that cannot be resisted. Yet, we doubt that there are any in public life who would not like some things changed. Public life in America is not an easy game. It doesn't pay very handsomely, although some men have managed to parlay it into fortunes. Also, you are subject to a kind of criticism unique among careers. You can be a hero one day and a dog the next. You are frequently misunderstood and often the target of little more than partisanship. You, also, have a job that is placed in jeopardy every two, four or six years.

In many respects, we treat our public officials in somewhat shabby fashion. There are many awards and compensations, of course, but it still is rather remarkable that we have the caliber of people in public life that we do. Governor Scranton will be a loss among the ranks of public officials and it is hoped that time may mellow his attitude and that events keep him in the mainstream of public affairs, if not public life.

The Ombudsman Plan

A knowing gentleman residing on Long Island has started a movement to introduce a new factor in government. His desire is to induce Long Island to adopt the ombudsman principle. And he may win. An ombudsman is a Swedish invention introduced in government in 1809. It means public protector.

It is the duty of the ombudsman to represent the people against governmental error as well as against private interests who may be taking advantage of the state.

If all the states adopted the ombudsman plan democracy would take an important step forward.

The ombudsman has one concern—the welfare of the people—and he is generally a very busy man.

In Nebraska, for instance, the legislature passes a tax law. But who actually interprets its application short of court action? Realizing that the courts cannot reach for cases but must have them brought in by a plaintiff, the interpretation then is generally made by a private interest which has the means and legal talent to persuade an administration to apply the law its way. The ombudsman would be employed to prepare an interpretation with equal thoroughness in behalf of the people.

It would work the same in public utility rates. Localities are never prepared to contest a rate at equal strength with the petitioner. The result is generally a one-sided hearing.

Should the state conduct administrative practices convenient to the state but against the best interests of the people at large the ombudsman has the duty to seek a correction of the practice.

We say it is a good plan.

The Worry Season

Nebraska as well as other Middle West grain and livestock producing states is currently laboring under the threat of drought. That always gives us sleepless nights.

It is true Nebraska has already taken some damage. It will show principally in the cattle industry. The state has a high inventory of range cattle. The early pasture is short. The first cutting of alfalfa is slightly more than one fourth of normal. This can mean high cost feeding and at worst a dumping of cattle for lack of feed. The result of that is usually falling prices. But none of this has happened yet and, we hope, will not happen.

In grain growing the state is moisture short. But it is to be remembered that normal Mays and Junes provide too much rainfall. In the grain growing business it is always a question of when it rains, not how much. So far our harm has not equalled our fears.

And we are again reassured by the great increase in irrigation. It carries the factor of ever normal production and it will be our standby in event our worst fears are realized.

Eastern Nebraska needs to hasten its preparation of big dams on its principal rivers. We need such supplies of water for ground recharge and surface use when a dry season demands.

We are learning that while small impoundments are necessary in some areas, great reservoirs are also needed. And the small dams collectively take as much land out of cultivation as do the large reservoirs. And the latter have an additional advantage. Once built they secure a water reserve that cannot be attacked by downstream states.

Project Confusion

From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch

It just occurred to us that during all the months we did not give it a thought the process of assigning code names to anything and everything military was proceeding apace. An awesome thought, particularly when it is clear the whole business is completely out of hand.

What gives us considerable pause is a news item in a periodical devoted to aviation matters. "Project Razor Clam," it seems, "is the code name for the forthcoming Air Force purchase of 200 AN-ARN-85 Loran-C precision navigation receivers . . . for aircraft in Viet Nam, where a Loran-C network is in operation."

Loran, which is short for "long-range navigation," helps sailors and pilots determine their geographical positions. Its value in tactical situations and for rescue missions is obvious. Along the borders of mainland China, the accuracy of Loran equipment and the skill of those who use it is devoutly to be wished.

But must the mere purchase of Loran gear be dubbed Project Razor Clam? What if this were one of many ever-changing code names to keep in mind? Perhaps it would help to remember that the 200 AN-ARN-85 had been named after a marine bivalve mollusk whose long, thin, curved shell was named after a razor. Unless the purchase of claims for an admiral's dinner was coded Project Loran.

Either way, some poor soul will say he is with Project Razorback. Having unknowingly uttered the public code name of a CIA plan to take over Alabama, he will be clapped into irons and dragged beneath the Pentagon, where the dungeons are probably full.

For a few days this spring it threatened a repeat performance, and the WASHINGTON — The Senate Ethics Committee, reluctant at first to investigate a colleague, is now digging with quiet determination into the sordid affairs of Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn. But on the House side, Speaker John McCormack is more anxious to cover up than clean up House scandals.

The speaker has stoutly resisted the idea of forming a House ethics committee to police the conduct of congressmen. Behind the scenes, McCormack has also been one of Dodd's most staunch defenders. He not only lowered the boom on freshmen Congressman Joe Resnick, D-N.Y., for mentioning Dodd's name on the House floor, but personally ordered the dismissal of Dodd's former administrative assistant, Jim Boyd, who had found a job with the House Public Works Committee.

If the House should ever get around to establishing an ethics committee, this column will be happy to supply the names of congressmen who should be investigated. The majority, as in the Senate, are scrupulously honest. But some congressmen bear investigation.

The House Ethics Committee, if McCormack would permit it to be formed, could begin with Rep. Abraham Multer, D-N.Y., a bespectacled, benign-looking Brooklyn attorney whose plump figure, rosy face, and angelic glow give him more the look of a clergyman than a political manipulator. But, as the No. 2 Democrat on the House Banking and Currency Committee, he has used his influence to promote his own banking interests. Both he and his wife have invested in banks while he has been passing on banking legislation.

He has also brought pressure on the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which comes under the jurisdiction of his committee, to give favorable rulings on savings and loan outfits in which he has an interest.

Multer tried to persuade the board, for example, to charter the Park Central Savings and Loan Company in the application, he paid repeated calls on then-chairman Joseph McMurray and finally hauled him before the Banking committee to put on the heat.

McMurray explained that the board couldn't approve the charter because less than 5 percent of the stockholders were local residents. The proposed savings and loan company, he testified, was controlled by "a few men in New York."

"It shouldn't matter to you where that money came from," snapped Multer, "whether it came from Alaska or California or anywhere else."

"If a small group controls the capital of an association," replied McMurray, "there can be manipulation . . . for the long-run benefit of the community, it might not be good to have a few, especially outsiders, operating it."

Brown, Reagan Seen Winners

WASHINGTON — California nears the end of lackluster primaries but faces the prospect of an explosive election campaign on the volatile race issue.

The front-runners are home free next Tuesday, according to the usual indices of voter opinion. They have shown consistently that Gov. Edmund G. Brown will be renominated for a third term by Democrats and will face actor Ronald Reagan, Republican, in November. In the presence of such cozy assurances, both have played it safe and avoided arousing the customers.

Brown is expected to pull in with him all his state ticket of incumbents, including Lieut. Gov. Glenn Anderson, who had originally seemed vulnerable to the rival candidacies of a Kennedy friend and an associate of President Johnson. Republicans have paid little attention to anything but Reagan's effort to establish himself as a moderate well to the left of his 1964 friend, Barry Goldwater.

But like the well-known names on the ticket, the equally well-known Watts still stands, and it, too, has not changed very much. The state recognizes other tin-dimensions as Oakland and Bakersfield, but the Los Angeles ghetto which rioted, burned and looted remains the dominant symbol of Negro discontent.

For a few days this spring it threatened a repeat performance, and the politicians shivered and then took up familiar positions. Democrats, except for Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, Brown's primary opposition, pointed with pride to the beginnings that have been made. Yorty and Reagan spoke of law and order.

Beginnings have been made, but the governor, among others, is painfully aware of their inadequacy. It remains to be seen whether Reagan will come up with his own concrete program or stick with the white backlash play, covertly in symbols or openly.

President Johnson easily carried California in 1964, but at the same time the state voted to repeal its ban against housing discrimination. This recollection is naturally a temptation to the Brown opposition in a state election.

Brown, naturally moderate, consistent throughout a long career and a cheerful optimist, could suffer from the defects of these qualities in the presence of such stern issues as race and Viet Nam. He is always more easily provoked than provoking.

Reagan has a politically uninhibited and inconsistent past, but his new managers, Spencer and Roberts, can boast that he rarely broke out of the moderation bonds they prescribed for him. But the primaries were no test really, and Reagan kept his eye fixed on the fairly large undecided vote shown in the polls which can still provide upsets on Tuesday.

By DON WALTON

One year ago today, the Legislature was in session and the state income tax bill was resting on select file with a motion pending to kill the measure.

Three days later, the motion came to a vote.

Down it went on a 21-27 count, and LB797 was moved ahead on route to that dramatic June 22 morning date with history.

Much has happened to change, challenge and assault Nebraska's tax system since the 1965 Legislature broke with a century of tradition and approved the first basic change in the state's tax structure in its 98-year history.

Although the 1965 session made its mark in nearly all legislative fields, it was clearly a session in which taxes were the dominant issue.

And now, come Monday, the Legislature — with two new faces and 47 familiar ones — will return to Lincoln in special session to face new tax difficulties, largely unrelated to the income tax issue, and yet indicative of the state's almost unrelenting tax tangle.

Confusion may be the key word now.

But chaos is not far away. And with the state's revenue structure seemingly crumbling at every turn, the dimensions of potential chaos could yet turn to crisis.

Ever since the 1965 Legislature made its momentous decision to broaden the state tax base, Nebraskans have been scrambling to write — and unwire — state tax laws through the initiative and referendum processes, seeking to challenge the new tax system and limit future legislative alternatives.

Other developments have only served to further complicate the problem.

Let's review what has happened:

—petitioners, directed from Omaha, obtained 82,000 signatures for referendum petitions to submit the state income tax law to a popular vote in November.

—in retaliation, the farm population — spearheaded by the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation — has obtained an estimated 88,000 signatures on initiative petitions to propose a November vote on a constitutional amendment to bar the state from the property tax field.

—meanwhile, county after county has chosen to roll back property valuation increases ordered by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment; even valuation hikes resulting from scientific reappraisals have been subjected to the roll-back response.

—then, the State Supreme Court cut the ground out from under the intangible property tax, at least temporarily, by changing the method of evaluating stock in foreign corporations for taxing purposes. Reduced revenue for state, city and county governments and school districts has been pegged at about $3 million.

Now, does all that add up to confusion—or chaos?

In any event, the intangible tax problem can be resolved on a short-term basis by the special session which convenes next week.

And the income tax issue will never come to a vote if the Supreme Court upholds a Lancaster District Court ruling holding the referendum petition drive to be invalid. That could also solve the intangible tax problem on a long-term basis.

If the decision is upheld, state government will move from the property base to an income tax in 1967. And the 1967 Legislature will consider new tax refinements when it meets next year, including the possibility of a general sales tax.

But if the decision is reversed, if the income tax goes to a vote and if it is defeated in November, then the 1967 Legislature will need to start all over again — probably with its tax alternatives limited either by constitutional mandate or political realities.

What has been happening in Nebraska, in addition to the erosion of a century-old tax system, we would suggest, is some sort of organized tax revolt inspired by special interests. It has not taken on the characteristics of a truly spontaneous popular revolt, but it has emerged as a series of organized responses to specific taxes.

There was no popular revolt in the May primary election to throw out legislative supporters of the income tax law. None were defeated; in fact, none even ran second in the primary—except in one district where two incumbent lawmakers, both of whom voted for the income tax, bumped up against each other.

But Omaha interests will generally pay less under the state property tax system than under an income tax, and so they have attacked the income tax law. And farm interests believe they will pay less under the income tax and so they are attacking the property tax system.

Substantial numbers of persons who just don't like taxes in any form have apparently been willing to sign petitions for both sides, and presumably stand ready to help both groups in the general election.

What neither side appears to accept is the very real possibility that the 1965 Legislature permanently broadened the tax base no matter what the electorate may do in the 1966 general election.

We think that's the case. We think the state tax base has been permanently broadened — and that state aid to education is not far away.

If that is the case, special interests might find their causes better served if they concentrated their efforts on changing, or cementing, the composition of the Legislature, rather than stirring tax revolt, confusion and chaos largely for selfish reasons.

Gremlins invaded the United Press International teletype last week and gave Nobby Tiemann a new nickname briefly, until the error was discovered and corrected.

Read the dispatch: "Lincoln, Neb. (UPI) — Norbert T. (Nobby) Tiemann, a small town banker . . ."

BOB CONSIDINE

Advertisers Adopt Humility

NEW YORK—We are becoming uncommonly humble. Particularly along Madison Avenue, where once nothing short of colossal would suffice.

An auto rental firm, Avis, frankly admits it is only No. 2 and even took itself to task in full-page ads for having rented a car whose ashtrays were filled. A chain of restaurants, Horn & Hardart, takes space in the papers and on the air to describe how drab is the decor of its places. An auto manufacturer, Volkswagen, calls its product downright homely. A brewery, Rheingold, finds itself doing something right but professes that it doesn't know quite what. A major blade-maker, Gillette, claims that a special plastic coating on the edge of its superdupers results in a reduction of pull in shaving. But it can't explain why it works, it says.

The blade people are further puzzled over why fried eggs don't stick to pans treated with the same coating. (I read that particular razor ad, showing the eggs frying, too hurriedly — and as a result tried to shave that morning with a fried egg. Disastrous!) Lots of boons around for which we have no proper explanation, the razor fellows swear.

Aspirin, for example. They got a lot of mail when they said that aspirin is still pretty much a medical mystery, but they (or their agency) are sticking to that story, and continuing to draw an unnerving picture of science with its back to the wall, mumbling incoherently about aspirin.

Boss Kettering, the genius, used to like to say that all man's troubles would end the day somebody found out why grass grows green. A famed authority on the common cold, acknowledging his unconditional surrender after a lifetime of research, said, "Treat a bad cold properly and it will end in 21 days. Give it no care whatsoever and it will end in three weeks."

What is sleep? There are more than 100 classical references to it in Bartlett's familiar quotations, but none tell us when it comes, why it goes, what happens in between, and why we must spend about a third of our entire lives engaged with the nonsense. "The brother of death," sang the eighth century B.C. Greek poet Hesiod.

What gives the migratory creatures their bearings over thousands of unmarked air and sea and land miles? How can a blindfolded porpoise unerringly swim the length of a long tank to sniffle at a BB shot that has just been carefully lowered into the water. What does the goose at the head of the line say to order those behind him to form a delta or a straight line? Why does a wound heal and, when it has healed, turn off the healers?

Perhaps Madison Avenue's humility is well taken.

The State Department says it would not be opposed to springing Rudolph Hess out of Spandau prison next fall when two of the last three big Nazi war criminals, Albert Speer and Baldur von Schirach, finish their terms. Less has been cuckoo for some time, and it seems hardly worth the effort for the U.S., Britain, France and Russia to continue to keep him in the cooler. He'd be the only prisoner left in the jail.

Gen. Eisenhower said recently he believes it might not be a bad idea for us to sell atomic weapons to our allies. It would save them the trouble of stealing the plans, for one thing.

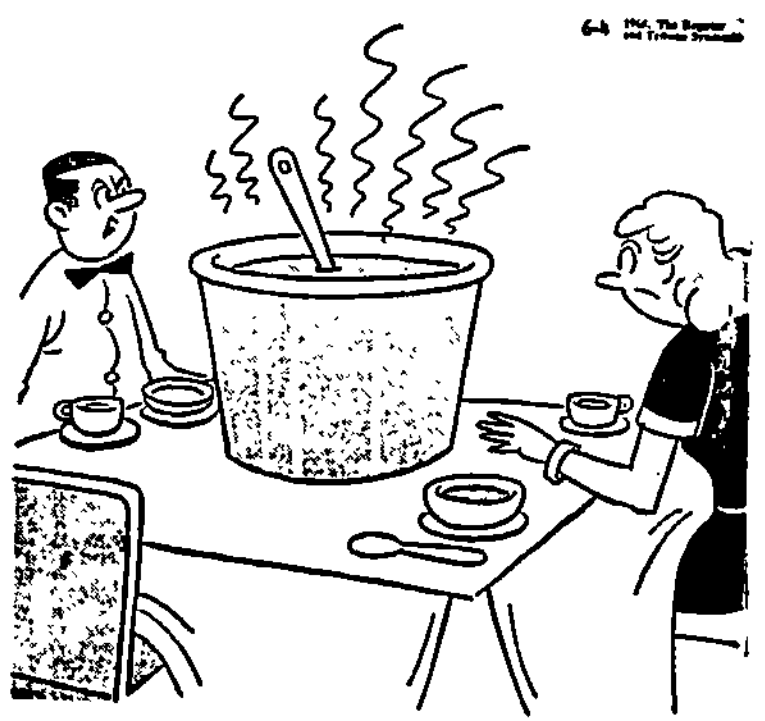

Problem there is "what happens when the allies stop being allies?"

Allegiances don't stay put; nor do enmities. Russia and China were our beloved allies in World War II, a short quarter of a century ago, Germany, Japan and Italy were our hated foes.

What will the next quarter century bring?

Scenes Are Changing

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Various groups have toured the Lincoln Air Force Base in the past year, all of them looking toward some future use of the sprawling facilities now virtually abandoned by the Strategic Air Command. Many of the military could not doubt write some stirring accounts in comparing the calm that now prevails at LAFB with the suspense and activity that once pervaded the area.

Some of those who have toured the base have gotten the same impression that many of the military must feel. Take, for instance, General Arnold School which the Lincoln Board of Education is strongly considering closing for the 1966-67 term. The school will close for a very simple reason—no children to attend its classes. Those who have toured the base will see something rather sad in this for General Arnold is quite a nice structure, modern in all respects and even the winner of an award for architectural excellence. Not long ago it was a beehive of activity with children of all description filling its halls and classrooms.

And now the school will be empty while there are children in other lands and even in other parts of our country that dearly need but have no such facility as General Arnold. Perhaps some day the school will be re-opened when and if there are again a number of families at the base but until then it will be as silent as a tomb in contrast to the many voices that once echoed through it.

It is not a situation in which someone is to blame; it is just the product of our changing times. The base and all its facilities were a proud part of a military organization that has changed in character. Because it has changed, its needs are different and the Lincoln base no longer fits the new pattern.

In some other areas, things have not changed so much. Out across Nebraska there is, as there was last year, another threat of drought. Our concern this year is the same as it was at this time last year. Already, some cattle are being put on hay because the grazing lands have not produced sufficient grass for them. Some cattlemen are already thinning their herds because they lack the feed to hold their herds without the help of nature. The first cutting of alfalfa has been completed and is reported to be less than half of expectations. But it got worse last year than it is right now and the state still pulled out of it. It is hoped that the same relief that came last year comes again this year in the form of drenching rains.

Just as things in agriculture reached the really critical stage, as corn was denting early and wheat was prematurely heading out, the rains came last year. Some crops still were hurt but the harvest still turned out good. It was not long before the state faced a new problem, that of floods. The pastures took on a coat of green and cattle once again roamed the countryside rather than huddled in the feedlot. Last year, in fact, was probably worse at this stage than things are now because there was a substantial shortage of sub-soil moisture. We are worried now but the coming month is the critical one and we can only hope that somebody up there is looking out for us.

Change is apparently in order in the life of Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton. Governor Scranton, with his term of public office growing to a close, has announced in convincing fashion that he will never again run for a public office. History, of course, is full of such statements by men and women who went on to serve their nation in important ways.

The statement by Governor Scranton, however, had a ring of finality and determination to it. Whatever the future does bring, the governor seems firm at this time to retire from public life. It would be interesting if Scranton had explained the basis for his decision.

For some men, public life seems to have an appeal that cannot be resisted. Yet, we doubt that there are any in public life who would not like some things changed. Public life in America is not an easy game.

Much has happened to change, challenge and assault Nebraska's tax system since the 1965 Legislature broke with a century of tradition and approved the first basic change in the state's tax structure in its 98-year history.

Although the 1965 session made its mark in nearly all legislative fields, it was clearly a session in which taxes were the dominant issue.

And now, come Monday, the Legislature—with two new faces and 47 familiar ones—in special session to face new tax difficulties, largely unrelated to the income tax issue, and yet indicative of the state's almost unbelievable tax tangle.

Confusion may be the key word now.

But chaos is not far away. And with the state's revenue structure seemingly crumbling at every turn, the dimensions of potential chaos could yet turn to crisis.

Ever since the 1965 Legislature made its momentous decision to broaden the state tax base, Nebraskans have been scrambling to write—and unwire—state tax laws through the initiative and referendum processes, seeking to challenge the new tax system and limit future legislative alternatives.

Other developments have only served to further complicate the problem.

Let's review what has happened:

—petitioners, directed from Omaha, obtained 82,000 signatures on referendum petitions to submit the state income tax law to a popular vote in November.

—in retaliation, the farm population—spearheaded by the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation—has obtained an estimated 88,000 signatures on initiative petitions to propose a November vote on a constitutional amendment to bar the state from the property tax field.

—meanwhile, county after county has chosen to roll back property valuation increases ordered by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment; even valuation hikes resulting from scientific reappraisals have been subjected to the roll-back response.

—then, the State Supreme Court cut the ground out from under the intangible property tax, at least temporarily, by changing the method of evaluating stock in foreign corporations for taxing purposes. Reduced revenue for state, city and county governments and school districts has been pegged at about $3 million.

Now, does all that add up to confusion—or chaos?

In any event, the intangible tax problem can be resolved on a short-term basis by the special session which convenes next week.

And the income tax issue will never come to a vote if the Supreme Court upholds a Lancaster District Court ruling holding the referendum petition drive to be invalid. That could also solve the intangible tax problem on a long-term basis.

If the decision is upheld, state government will move from the property base to an income tax in 1967. And the 1967 Legislature will consider new tax refinements when it meets next year, including the possibility of a general sales tax.

But if the decision is reversed, if the income tax goes to a vote and if it is defeated in November, then the 1967 Legislature will need to start all over again—probably with its tax alternatives limited either by constitutional mandate or political realities.

What has been happening in Nebraska, in addition to the erosion of a century-old tax system, we would suggest, is some sort of organized tax revolt inspired by special interests. It has not taken on the characteristics of a truly spontaneous popular revolt, but it has emerged as a series of organized responses to specific taxes.

There was no popular revolt in the May primary election to throw out legislative supporters of the income tax law. None were defeated; in fact, none even ran second in the primary—except in one district where two incumbent lawmakers, both of whom voted for the income tax, bumped up against each other.

But Omaha interests will generally pay less under the state property tax system than under an income tax, and so they have attacked the income tax law. And farm interests believe they will pay less under the income tax and so they are attacking the property tax system.

Substantial numbers of persons who just don't like taxes in any form have apparently been willing to sign petitions for both sides, and presumably stand ready to help both groups in the general election.

What neither side appears to accept is the very real possibility that the 1965 Legislature permanently broadened the tax base no matter what the electorate may do in the 1966 general election.

We think that's the case. We think the state tax base has been permanently broadened—and that state aid to education is not far away.

If that is the case, special interests might find their causes better served if they concentrated their efforts on changing, or cementing, the composition of the Legislature, rather than stirring tax revolt, confusion and chaos largely for selfish reasons.

Gremlins invaded the United Press International teletype last week and gave Nobby Tiemann a new nickname briefly, until the error was discovered and corrected.

BOB CONSIDINE

Advertisers Adopt Humility

NEW YORK—We are becoming uncommonly humble. Particularly along Madison Avenue, where once nothing short of colossal would suffice.

An auto rental firm, Avis, frankly admits it is only No. 2 and even took itself to task in full-page ads for having rented a car whose ashtrays were filled. A chain of restaurants, Horn & Hardart, takes space in the papers and on the air to describe how drab is the decor of its places. An auto manufacturer, Volkswagen, calls its product downright homely.

A brewery, Rheingold, finds itself doing something right but professes that it doesn't know quite what. A major blade-maker, Gillette, claims that a special plastic coating on the edge of its superdupers results in a reduction of pull in shaving. But it can't explain why it works, it says.

The blade people are further puzzled over why fried eggs don't stick to pans treated with the same coating. (I read that particular razor ad, showing the eggs frying, too hurriedly—and as a result tried to shave that morning with a fried egg. Disastrous!) Lots of boons around for which we have no proper explanation, the razor fellows swear.

Aspirin, for example. They got a lot of mail when they said that aspirin is still pretty much a medical mystery, but they (or their agency) are sticking by that story, and continuing to draw an unnerving picture of science with its back to the wall, mumbling incoherently about aspirin.

Boss Kettering, the genius, used to like to say that all man's troubles would end the day somebody found out why grass grows green. A famed authority on the common cold, acknowledging his unconditional surrender after a lifetime of research, said, "Treat a bad cold properly and it will end in 21 days. Give it no care whatsoever and it will end in three weeks."

What is sleep? There are more than 100 classical references to it in Bartlett's familiar quotations, but none tell us when it comes, why it goes, what happens in between, and why we must spend about a third of our entire lives engaged with the nonsense. "The brother of death," sang the eighth century B.C. Greek poet Hesiod.

What gives the migratory creatures their bearings over thousands of unmarked air and sea and land miles? How can a blindfolded porpoise unerringly swim the length of a long tank to sniffle at a BB shot that has just been carefully lowered into the water. What does the goose at the head of the line say to order those behind him to form a delta or a straight line? Why does a wound heal and, when it has healed, turn off the healers?

Perhaps Madison Avenue's humility is well taken.

The State Department says it would not be opposed to springing Rudolph Hess out of Spandau prison next fall when two of the last three big Nazi war criminals, Albert Speer and Baldur von Schirach, finish their terms. Hess has been cuckoo for some time, and it seems hardly worth the effort for the U.S., Britain, France and Russia to continue to keep him in the cooler. He'd be the only prisoner left in the jail.

Gen. Eisenhower said recently he believes it might not be a bad idea for us to sell atomic weapons to our allies. It would save them the trouble of stealing the plans, for one thing.

Problem there is "what happens when the allies stop being allies?"

Alliances don't stay put; nor do enmities. Russia and China were our beloved allies in World War II, a short quarter of a century ago. Germany, Japan and Italy were our hated foes.

What will the next quarter century bring?

Husband Not In Shape For Beach, Wife Contends

By ROBERT PETERSON
Q. "I'm 60, retired, weigh 187, and don't exactly cut an ideal figure in swimming trunks. My wife says it's a disgrace for me to waddle around the beach. I'm in. But I just learned to swim two years ago and we belong to the local beach club. Don't you feel I'm as entitled as the next member to use the pool?"

A. Sure do. Folks who go to the beach should be prepared to see all kinds, shapes and sizes of humanity. I don't imagine your avoirdupois is any more oddly distributed than that of a great many others who may be disporting themselves in the surf and sand. But why don't you try reducing, or at least toughening up the flab? If you had the initiative to learn to swim a couple of years ago, why not resolve to achieve a trimmer figure the next two years?

Q. "My husband has never made much money and now that he's retired on a fraction of his former income, my dreams of seeing Europe and living in a beautiful home will never be more than just that. I feel life has passed me by and I don't deny I'm bitter. Do you blame me?"

A. We all have to modify our dreams as we grow older, based on the realities of our circumstances. Make the most of what you have. Stop equating happiness with trips to Europe, beautiful houses and other desires. Savor your health and the affection of your family and friends. Get acquainted with that fine old maxim that says, "Happiness comes not in having much but in being content with little."

Court: No Ceiling On Surplus Capital

The Nebraska Supreme Court ruled Friday there is no limit to the amount of surplus capital which a cooperative may accumulate to properly engage in its business activities.

The high court also said a cooperative is not restricted to annual cash payments in distributing its earnings and savings to patrons.

In so ruling, the court affirmed a Scotts Bluff District court dismissal of a suit brought by Vernon F. Schmeckpeper in a dispute with the Panhandle Cooperative Association, of which he is a patron.

The Supreme Court said the Legislature has required that a cooperative maintain at least a minimum surplus, but the Legislature has set no maximum.

"We do not think the Legislature intended to condemn such cooperatives to mediocrity," the court declared. "It is apparent that the Legislature could have easily and clearly provided that only surplus to the extent of 20% of the capital could be set aside if it had desired."

But state law requires "the accumulation of an amount of surplus equal to 20% of its paid capital stock, (but) does not restrict the corporation from providing a greater amount," the court said.

Schmeckpeper asked the court to order an accounting of the surplus funds of the Panhandle Cooperative Association and the payment to its patrons of any surplus over the 20% level.

He also said surplus cash payments should be made annually to patrons.

The Supreme Court said a cooperative may distribute its earnings and savings through cash, stock, credits, deferred credit certificates or certificates of participation.

To hold otherwise, the court said, would be to override the authority of cooperatives to "accumulate surplus, and to hold and use the funds as

But my wife took the canvas downtown to an art teacher who says it's an excellent primitive impression of African animal life. Is it possible I'm some kind of genius?"

Q. "You sometimes hear about men retiring and going to pieces. But I've been retired five years and still seem to be intact. Am I an exception or are there many others like me?"

A. There's no scientific evidence that men generally suffer breakdowns or declines following retirement. We've all known isolated examples of men and women who were devoted to their work and seemed to fall apart following retirement. But most folks nowadays have the good sense to acquire specific interests and pursuits to substitute for work when they retire.

Thoughts for THINKERS

Will nuclear warfare destroy part or all of this world? Is this the magnificent conclusion to which this ball of earth rolls? Or will unity of the churches be achieved and subsequently wield an influence great enough to save the situation? And having saved man's existence, will that existence be worth living in a world of unthinking religious conformity?

Will the "bloodless" war of Communism eventually accomplish its purpose and enfold all nations? Or will the rapidly spreading Islam religion overflow even the bounds of atheism and become the one great competitor of Christianity?

Partial destruction of the world by nuclear warfare is possible in speaking of the last days of earth Christ said, "Except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved." (Matthew 24:21, 22.)

The shortening is accomplished by Christ's second coming, at which time He draws from the earth His "elect," those who have accepted of His salvation.

No unity of nations has been successful. Disharmony exists right up to the final hour. No major power has overpowered the peoples of the earth in its singular government. No religious unity has solved the dilemma of struggling humanity. Only Christ's coming ends it.

In other rulings Friday the court:

—Ordered a new trial in a Chase County case to determine the amount of damages to be paid Willard Hunt of Ender for flooding of his property resulting from improper maintenance of a drain under the Burlington tracks in Ender. The high court said the jury properly determined that the railroad had been negligent, but the district court erroneously instructed the jury on the matter of damages.

Affirmed a Dodge District Court decision in a family dispute over ownership of a 160-acre farm in Dodge County. The court said the farm belongs to Mrs. Heine Meyer, widow of the late Harvey Meyer, under an oral contract between Meyer and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Meyer.

Affirmed a Banner District Court ruling in a property fight between two neighboring farmers, V. E. Orsott and Her L. Olsen. The court ruled for Olsen that the fence between the two properties now constitutes the division line.

Affirmed a Loup District Court jury verdict in favor of Lester Watland in a damage suit brought by Taylor rancher Everett Satterfield for injuries allegedly suffered in a two-car collision on U.S. Highway 183 northwest of Taylor on Nov. 24, 1963.

Affirmed a Scotts Bluff District Court dismissal of a suit brought by Joe Blanco against Kramer Motors, Inc., and General Motors Acceptance Corporation in a contract dispute over purchase of a used automobile.

Affirmed a Douglas District Court dismissal of a suit brought by Mrs. Edna V. Roan which sought damages for injuries she suffered in a fall in an Omaha home owned by James Bruckner.

Outdoor Recreation Space Termed Critical NU Need

Outdoor recreation space was labeled at the Board of Regents meeting here Friday the "most critical need" of the University of Nebraska.

Chancellor Clifford Hardin agreed with Regents' President Clarence Swanson on the urgency of the need, especially with the prospect of increasing enrollments. For adequate outdoor recreation space and facilities.

Swanson declared, "We can't pile all these students on this campus without making some provision for recreation."

To Reach 20,000
More than 17,000 students were enrolled in the University this past year, and enrollments are expected to hit 20,000 in the next four years, it was pointed out.

"So far we have had the best disciplined bunch of students to be found in large schools," Swanson claimed.

"But if we don't face up" to the recreation need, "we are going to have some real serious problems," he warned.

Swanson urged a blueprint for more recreational space be drawn up in time to present to the 1967 Legislature.

In other action, Vice Chancellor Dr. Joseph Soshnik told the Regents that construction of more dormitories on the East Campus is under consideration by the administration. The announcement came as the board approved purchase of a parcel of land slated for dormitory space near 17th and R.

Soshnik said that residence units on the East Campus could come "concurrently" with the dormitories planned between 16th and 17th or "even before."

Money Accepted
The Regents accepted a total of $831,171.34 in research grants, fellowships, training grants and other special programs.

The largest grants included $94,375 from the Public Health Service to the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute for staff experimentation in community services; $44,700 to W. T. Attyeo from the National Science Foundation for entomology research; $65,401 from the Public Health Service to the College of Medicine for general research support; $51,431 from the U.S. Office of Education to H. Sulek for a child development program for vocational homemaker teachers; $104,400 from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to support predoctoral graduate students in space-related sciences; and $91,150 to Jack McBride from the Nebraska Council for Educational Television for elementary-secondary instructional television program.

In other action the Regents approved:

—Contract to Sides Construction Co. of Omaha for remodeling of University Hospital, $238,440.

—Contract for food service equipment for new dormitory complex to Pegler and Co. of Lincoln, $184,000.

—Contract with U.S. Atomic Energy Commission for $22,730 for research.

Dr. Harry Canon Is Chosen NU Counseling Center Chief

Dr. Harry Canon was named director of the University of Nebraska Counseling Center by the Board of Regents Friday afternoon.

The director of counseling at Virginia Polytechnic Institute since 1963, Dr. Canon holds an A.B. degree from Lycoming College, an M.A. from Pennsylvania State University and a Ph.D. from the University of Nebraska.

Dr. Canon succeeds Clay Gerken, who moved into full-time teaching in education psychology to strengthen counseling psychology training programs.

New Efforts

Among Dr. Canon's responsibilities as director of counseling will be new efforts to strengthen or improve the learning process throughout the institution by working closely with students and faculty.

Dr. John C. Woodward of the University of Miami was named chairman of human development and the family in the School of Home Economics, effective Aug. 1.

A graduate of Doane College, Dr. Woodward holds M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from NU. He has served as associate professor of education at San Jose State College and as professor and director of evaluation at the University of Miami.

Dr. James R. Rawley, professor of history, was named chairman of the department, succeeding Dr. Robert Sakai, who resigned. Dr. Rawley holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from Michigan State University and a Ph.D. from Columbia University.

Acting Chairman
Dr. Robert H. Hurlbutt III, professor of philosophy, was named acting chairman of the department while Dr. Robert E. Dewey is on leave next fall.

In other personnel action, the Regents appointed:

—Dr. Yen-Chung Pao associate professor of engineering mechanics. Dr. Pao has been serving as preliminary design engineer for the Garrett Corporation at Los Angeles, Calif.

—Richard F. Broude associate professor law. Broude has been practicing law in Chicago and formerly served as law clerk for a member of the Illinois Supreme Court.

—Dr. Udo Helmuth Jansen, member of the University of Arizona faculty, associate professor of secondary education.

U. P. Industrial Tract Deeds Filed Here

Deeds totaling $332,738 for part of the 983-acre tract purchased by the Union Pacific Railroad for an industrial tract northwest of Lincoln were filed Friday in the Lancaster County Register of Deeds office.

The land, purchased by Oliver DeMars as trustee, averaged more than $600 per acre.

The deeds included: 48 acres from John D. Carter Sr. and wife, $58,188; 299 acres from John E. Filer and wife, $149,550; 135 acres from Richard J. Walin and wife, $108,000, and a small tract from Violet Rau, $17,000.

The railroad announced last week that the tract, which is one of the largest being developed by the railroad, will cost about $1 million.

The tract lies east of the Municipal Airport between Interstate 80 and the Union Pacific tracks.

Auto Mishap Victim Reported Satisfactory

Noel Smith, 63, of 3727 Dunn, who suffered a fractured left shoulder in an auto accident Friday, was reported in satisfactory condition at Lincoln General Hospital.

Police said the accident occurred at 17th and R at noon when a car driven by David T. Janover of Fremont collided with the Smith auto.

Panelists Paint Buck Rogers Picture Of Nebraska

In 100 years, Nebraska may resemble something out of a Buck Rogers comic book, persons attending a panel discussion at the Alumni College in Lincoln said Friday.

The college is part of the University of Nebraska Alumni Association's annual reunion.

In the future, the state's skyline may bristle with multi-level dwellings which will absorb an expanding population and the air will crackle with laser beams carrying information from far places.

And, perhaps, earthlings will inhabit other planets. These were some of the predictions of possibilities in store for Nebraskans in the year 2067, according to panelists on the program.

In addition, panelist Dean Elvin Frolik of the University of Nebraska predicted that farming methods would be so improved that we would look back on today's way simply as stop-gap measures.

Harvests 11 Too
Eventually, Frolik said, there will be a machine that not only plants the crop, but which will weed it and harvest it as well.

Man will have learned to control seed germination by then, he said, noting that the same machine that plants, weeds and harvests, will also plant next year's seed in the same operation.

In the coming years, men will learn to better control water erosion and escape weeds, which now sap 10% of a farmer's potential water supply, will no longer be a problem, thanks to new chemicals, he said.

As the skylines of urban areas change, so will the skyline of rural areas. The machines farmers of the future will use will not be manned. More than likely, their power source will be from a farmer-operated control panel, Frolik said.

Bright Future
Panelist Tom Pansing, in noting that the ever-increasing population of the world will have to be fed, predicted a potentially bright future for Nebraska as the world's grocery store.

"Food, in the future, will be one of the world's biggest problems," Pansing said. "Why not tool up not and be ready when the world needs food?" he asked.

Nebraska is already in a unique position, Pansing said, nothing that the state is both agrarian and has space. Space, Pansing added, will be a valuable commodity in the future.

Dean Jack Davis of the NU physical sciences department, also a panelist, warned that the next decade will be the most significant as far as the ensuing 90 years of Nebraska's history is concerned.

Davis said programs of sound education must be established now, not later. If these programs are not set up, the state will slowly lose bright, young men to other states, he said. This, he said, will be a serious problem in a future in which much depends on technology.

The businessman of the future—and even the farmer—according to Dean Wes Meyer, will rely heavily upon vast amounts of information stored on computer tapes.

Conceivably, Meyer added, men of the future will carry with them small, electronic packets, much like hearing aids, on which tremendous amounts of information designed for their special field of interest will be stored.

OLD FRIEND is greeted at no hostess luncheon

Late last week we mentioned that Mrs. Gene Gessner (Nancy Stebbins) and her three sons, Gene, Charles and Michael, were coming from Iowa City, Iowa, for a visit with Mrs. Gessner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Irl Stebbins, and Mr. Gessner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gessner.

Since her arrival late last week Mrs. Gessner has been kept on the hop, skip and jump—socially speaking. One of the fun affairs complimenting the visitor was a no hostess luncheon on Thursday at the Lincoln Country Club. It wouldn't take three guesses to know that reminiscing was the big feature of the afternoon.

MADAM CHAIRMAN

TALK of the town

This is a weekend filled with guests, memories, nostalgia—and all of the other wonderful things that commencement day at the University of Nebraska campus brings—including fun.

And guests there are, almost all of them University of Nebraska alumni who have come to receive honors—such as Edward M. Stanley of New York City, who was accompanied by Mrs. Stanley—or to stand tall and proud as their sons and daughters receive their degrees.

Many of the guests arrived on Thursday—as did the Stanleys—and Thursday evening we had a glimpse of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Branch piloting around a group of out-of-town alumni who were here for commencement.

As incredible as it may seem at this moment, there are guests who came for other reasons than graduation ceremonies.

We learned, for instance, that Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Parrish have arrived from Los Angeles to be the house guests of Mr. Parrish's sister, Mrs. George G. Swingle—and to attend the wedding of Miss Sue Cunningham and John Moreland which will take place this evening. Miss Cunningham is the daughter of Mrs. Parrish's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cunningham.

En route to Lincoln Mr. and Mrs. Parrish stopped in Kansas City to pick up Miss Cyrene Parrish, sister of Mr. Parrish and Mrs. Swingle, who also will be a guest at the home of Mrs. Swingle.

And on Sunday Mrs. Swingle will pay courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. Parrish and Miss Parrish when she entertains at a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Lincoln Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham will be included in the guest list.

Friday was 'spring luncheon' day for the distaff side of the Fifty Fifty Club. The party was at the Hillcrest Country Club, and following the luncheon tables were placed for bridge.

MEADOW LANE

Good byes are in the news this morning and will be from now until the mid-June. Families are joining husbands and fathers who had to report to a new assignment before the youngsters were out of school. Or, perhaps the whole family is in on the move. This kind of activity will continue all summer, but residents also must bid welcome to the subsequent new neighbors.

In Meadow Lane the John Ulmer family left the city this morning for a new residence in Grand Island. Their stay in Lincoln had been short—five months—but the neighborhood children will miss their Ulmer playmates, Barbara, Deborah, and Jane.

The new residents at the former Ulmer address, 830 Colony Lane, will be Mr. and Mrs. Gene Sobolik who are now residing at 531 N 73.

More goodbyes in order this morning are the ones for the eight members of the Merle McCunn family who will be leaving the city on Friday, June 10. Maj. McCunn has been transferred to a new assignment in Biloxi, Miss., at Kessler AFB. Accompanying their parents on the move south will be Steve, Debi, Joni, Tony, Aimee and Tracy.

The advance news on the new residents that will occupy the McCunn home, at 733 W Avon is that they will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walz now residing in Lincoln.

Thursday the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith M. Roper was filled with greetings, questions and the usual amount of enthusiasm and excitement exploded when grandparents arrive for a visit. That afternoon Mrs. Roper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kershner, arrived from Denver, Colo. for a visit that will extend through next Tuesday. On the travel agenda for the Kershners besides a stop in Lincoln was visiting in Amsterdam, Mo. earlier this week. They were the house guests of Mr. Kershner's mother, Mrs. Josephine Kershner.

Young Miles C. Tommeraaen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Tommeraaen, should have a grudge against the world—his birthday always falls on May 30, and seeing that it's a holiday and his friends are all away, he has to postpone the celebration. But of course Miles doesn't really mind—especially when there's a party on June 1, like this year, on his sixth anniversary. For the party Wednesday Miles gathered 13 of his friends for back yard games and refreshments.

SUNNYSIDE ACRES

The Memorial Day weekend brought many families together, and Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Henniger and Mrs. Henniger's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Pinkerton, were entertaining other members of their family at a Pioneers Park picnic on Sunday. Arriving from Grand Island was Mrs. Henniger's and Mr. Pinkerton's brothers-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Alley and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Clayton.

Besides new residents and residences, June is a good month for new mothers, and Mrs. Ed William and Mrs. Leonard Behrends surprised one such expectant lady, Mrs. Steve Brown, on Saturday afternoon

Reunion

The call is "ya'll come" as Mrs. Alfred Meyer and Mrs. Rudolph Pioning, this year's organizers of the Busboom family reunion, request that all relatives attend without further invitation their yearly gathering at Seward, Sunday June 5. That could be quite a tall order amounting to almost 150 relatives for the noon picnic dinner, so the ladies have designated the roomy 4-II building in Seward Park as the gathering place.

at a PINK baby shower. Why the pink only—Mrs. Brown has three strapping young sons, David, Dennis, and Daniel, and is certainly wishing for a little girl. The choice of a name for the young miss—a D of course—Diana.

Surprisers included Mrs. Densel O'Dea, Mrs. George Tomlinson, Mrs. Ed Scott, Mrs. Otto Diedrichs, Mrs. Bronislav Dubovsky and Mrs. James Mertlik.

SERVICE

solemnized in Rochester

The marriage of Miss Nancy Talbot Ward, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Emerson Ward of Rochester, Minn., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Talbot of Lincoln, to James Scott Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jones, also of Rochester, was solemnized on Saturday evening, May 28, at the First Presbyterian Church in Rochester.

Miss Irene Devine was the maid of honor, and the threesome of bridesmaids were Miss Judy Jones, Miss Jessie Steiner and Miss Paula Jones.

James Strowe served as best man, and the groomsmen were Richard Colvin, Jon Bjornnes, Louis Ward and Robert Ward.

Following the ceremony a wedding reception was held at the Rochester Country Club.

Both Mr. Jones and his bride are graduates of the University of Minnesota.

OLD FRIEND is greeted at no hostess luncheon

Late last week we mentioned that Mrs. Gene Gessner (Nancy Stebbins) and her three sons, Gene, Charles and Michael, were coming from Iowa City, Iowa, for a visit with Mrs. Gessner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Irl Stebbins, and Mr. Gessner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gessner.

Since her arrival late last week Mrs. Gessner has been kept on the hop, skip and jump—socially speaking. One of the fun affairs complimenting the visitor was a no-hostess luncheon on Thursday at the Lincoln Country Club. It wouldn't take three guesses to know that reminiscing was the big feature of the afternoon. In the group left to right, are Mrs. Richard Knudsen, Mrs. Jack Phillips, Mrs. Foster Woodruff, Mrs. Gessner and Mrs. Congdon Paulson.

MEADOW LANE

Good byes are in the news this morning and will be from now until the mid-June. Families are joining husbands and fathers who had to report to a new assignment before the youngsters were out of school. Or, perhaps the whole family is in on the move. This kind of activity will continue all summer, but residents also must bid welcome to the subsequent new neighbors.

In Meadow Lane the John Ulmer family left the city this morning for a new residence in Grand Island. Their stay in Lincoln had been short—five months—but the neighborhood children will miss their Ulmer playmates, Barbara, Deborah, and Jane.

The new residents at the former Ulmer address, 330 Colony Lane, will be Mr. and Mrs. Gene Sobolik who are now residing at 531 N 73.

More goodbyes in order this morning are the ones for the eight members of the Merle McCunn family who will be leaving the city on Friday, June 10. Maj. McCunn has been transferred to a new assignment in Biloxi, Miss., at Kessler AFB. Accompanying their parents on the move south will be Steve, Debi, Joni, Tony, Aimee and Tracy.

The advance news on the new residents that will occupy the McCunn home, at 733 W Avon is that they will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walz now residing in Lincoln.

Thursday the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith M. Roper was filled with greetings, questions and the usual amount of enthusiasm and excitement exploded when grandparents arrive for a visit. That afternoon Mrs. Roper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kershner, arrived from Denver, Colo. for a visit that will extend through next Tuesday. On the travel agenda for the Kershners besides a stop in Lincoln was visiting in Amsterdam, Mo. earlier this week. They were the house guests of Mr. Kershner's mother, Mrs. Josephine Kershner.

Young Miles C. Tommeraasen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Tommeraasen, should have a grudge against the world—his birthday always falls on May 30, and seeing that it's a holiday and his friends are all away, he has to postpone the celebration. But of course Miles doesn't really mind—especially when there's a party on June 1, like this year, on his sixth anniversary. For the party Wednesday Miles gathered 13 of his friends for back yard games and refreshments.

SUNNYSIDE ACRES

The Memorial Day weekend brought many families together, and Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Henniger and Mrs. Henniger's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Pinkerton, were entertaining other members of their family at a Pioneers Park picnic on Sunday. Arriving from Grand Island was Mrs. Henniger's and Mr. Pinkerton's brothers-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Allely and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Clayton.

Besides new residents and residences, June is a good month for new mothers, and Mrs. Ed William and Mrs. Leonard Behrends surprised one such expectant lady, Mrs. Steve Brown, on Saturday afternoon

Reunion

The call is "ya'll come" as Mrs. Alfred Meyer and Mrs. Rudolph Piening, this year's organizers of the Busboom family reunion, request that all relatives attend without further invitation their yearly gathering at Seward, Sunday June 5. That could be quite a tall order amounting to almost 150 relatives for the noon picnic dinner, so the ladies have designated the roomy 4-H building in Seward Park as the gathering place.

at a PINK baby shower. Why the pink only—Mrs. Brown has three strapping young sons, David, Dennis, and Daniel, and is certainly wishing for a little girl. The choice of a name for the young miss—a D of course—Diana.

Surprisers included Mrs. Densel O'Dea, Mrs. George Tomlinson, Mrs. Ed Scott, Mrs. Otto Diedrichs, Mrs. Bronislaw Dubovsky and Mrs. James Mertlik.

SERVICE solemnized in Rochester

The marriage of Miss Nancy Talbot Ward, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Emmerson Ward of Rochester, Minn., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Talbot of Lincoln, to James Scott Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jones, also of Rochester, was solemnized on Saturday evening, May 28, at the First Presbyterian Church in Rochester.

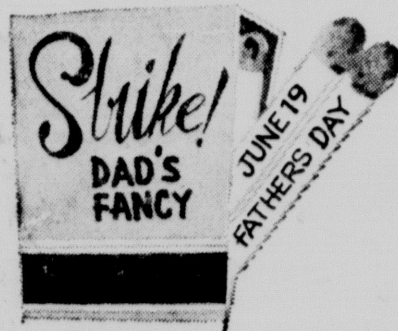

Miss Irene Devine was the maid of honor, and the threesome of bridesmaids were Miss Judy Jones, Miss Jessie Steiner and Miss Paula Jones.

James Strewé served as best man, and the groomsmen were Richard Colvin, Jon Bjornnes, Louis Ward and Robert Ward.

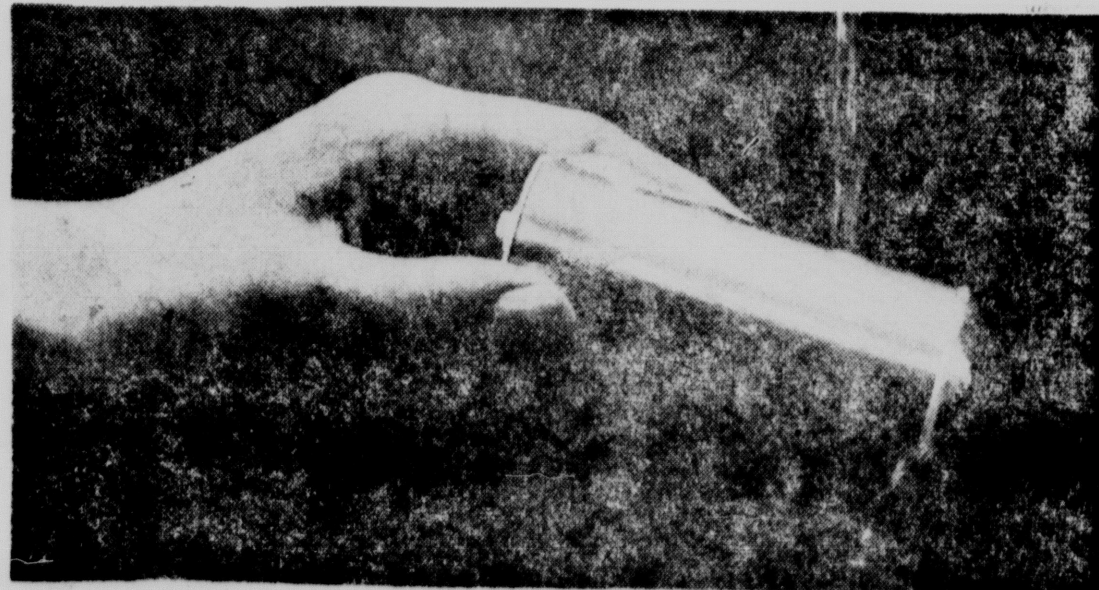

Following the ceremony a wedding reception was held at the Rochester Country Club.

Both Mr. Jones and his bride are graduates of the University of Minnesota.

COED is bride on Friday

Arrangements of white and gold blossoms formed the background in the reception lounge of the First-Plymouth Congregational Church on Friday afternoon, June 3, for the marriage of Miss Emily Schlaht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Schlaht of Billings, Mont., to Norman Rosenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rosenberg. The service was solemnized at 1 o'clock by Dr. J. Ford Forsyth, and Miss Shirley Voss, pianist, played the wedding music.

Mrs. Harlan D. Hubka of Beatrice was the matron of honor and bride's only attendant. Her daytime frock was fashioned of Italian silk in the antique gold shade and she wore a small flowered hat in matching tone. A white orchid corsage completed her costume.

Serving as best man was Ronald Rosenberg, and the groomsmen were Harlan D. Hubka of Beatrice, and Richard Spellman, Ashland.

For her wedding, the bride selected white embroidered linen designed in the after-five mode. She wore a brow veil of silk illusion, and her shoulder corsage was fashioned of gold-throated white orchids.

Upon their return from a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Rosenberg will make their home at 2526 A. The bride is a June graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. A graduate student at the university, from which he received his degree, Mr. Rosenberg is a member of Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity and of Phi Beta Kappa scholastic honor society.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail
Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My daughter (whom I shall call "Hilda") is graduating from high school in June, so my rich sister sent her a $500 check with a note, "To get your nose fixed, honey."

Now, Abby, Hilda's nose isn't that bad. She resembles my father, and his nose goes with his face. Some of Hilda's friends have had their noses fixed and she's been after us ever since to let her get hers done. We have said we couldn't afford it. Now what can we say?

I am so burned up at my sister I can hardly see to write this. She had HER nose bobbed a few years ago and she thinks she looks like Elizabeth Taylor, but I think her nose had more character.

Abby, do you think my sister had any right sending our daughter that check for a nose job, knowing how we fought against it? And should we let Hilda do it even though she really doesn't need it?

FAMILY NOSE FIGHT

DEAR NOSE FIGHT: Your sister should have kept her bobbed nose out of your family fight. But consider your daughter. HER nose doesn't have to go with her father's face. And if a girl's character is in her nose, heaven help her.

If Hilda thinks she needs to have her nose resculpted, she needs it. Take her to a competent plastic surgeon for a consultation. He won't chisel needlessly.

The bidding:

This seemed to be a normal result, but when the English North-South pair played the hand, their bidding went:

West led the six of clubs and South won the jack with the queen. After playing two rounds of trumps, declarer eventually took a spade finesse. When it failed, he went down one for a loss of 100 points.

However, South could have made the slam after getting the favorable club lead. The proper play is to enter dummy with a diamond and lead a heart. When East produces the queen, declarer takes the ace, cashes the ace of clubs, ruffs a club, plays a diamond to the king and ruffs his last club. By this time the situation is:

|              |     |              |   |
|--------------|-----|--------------|---|
| North |     | East  |   |

|              |     | J64          | 1 |

Declarer now plays a heart, which East wins with the king. East must then lead a diamond, permitting a ruff and discard, or a spade, which gives South a free finesse.

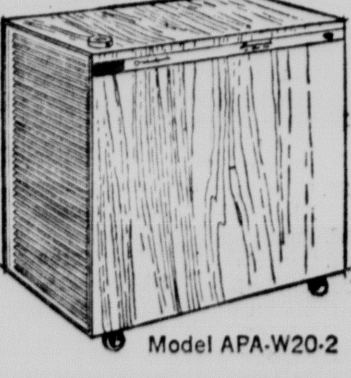

The suggested course of play is entirely reasonable, since declarer maintains his chance to take a spade finesse if it becomes necessary, while at the same time he creates an opportunity to make the slam without running the risk of a losing finesse.

—NICKLAUS FIRES 64— Littler Moves Into Tie With Yancey At Memphis

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—Gene Littler tied Bert Yancey for the second-round lead in the $100,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament Friday, while defending champion Jack Nicklaus rallied with a six-under-par 64 to move back into contention.

Littler's second straight 66 and Yancey's 69 gave them 36-hole totals of 132, a two-round record low for the Memphis Open. They were eight under par at the halfway mark.

Jack Rule was in second place with 135, followed by Bruce Devlin, Johnny Pott, Bob Goolby, Tommy Jacobs, Wright Garrett, Homero Blacas, Bob Charles and Nicklaus with 136.

In the opening round Nicklaus had a two-over-par 72, but he became deadly on the greens Friday and posted a 64. He shot an eagle 3 on the 16th and birdied No. 18.

Nicklaus started slow last year but came on to win in a playoff over Johnny Pott.

Pott was two over par after the first round but shot a 64 Friday.

Tom Cassidy, with an opening 74, came back at 64 although he had three putts three greens. After making seven birdies, he shot an eagle 3 on No. 18.

The field of 142 players was cut to the low 70 scorers and ties after the second round.

Relaxing after his brilliant round, Nicklaus was asked how the course played.

"I thought it played eight strokes easier," he quipped, "but the pin placements actually were a little tougher."

"My game went real well today," he added. "I only made a couple of shots that got me into trouble."

Bunched at 137 were Roger Ginsberg, Dale Douglass, Dave Hill, Ken Towns, Rod Fumseth, R. H. Sikes and Terry Dill.

Thirty-two players were under par at the midway point and the cutoff was 143.

Only eight horses in the long history of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont have won all three of the classics. Kauai King is two-thirds of the way and is 4-5, with a strong possibility of shorter odds by post time. He'll be No. 9 and the first since Citation in 1948.

Post time is 3:15 p.m., CST. The race will be televised nationally by CBS from 3:30 p.m., CST.

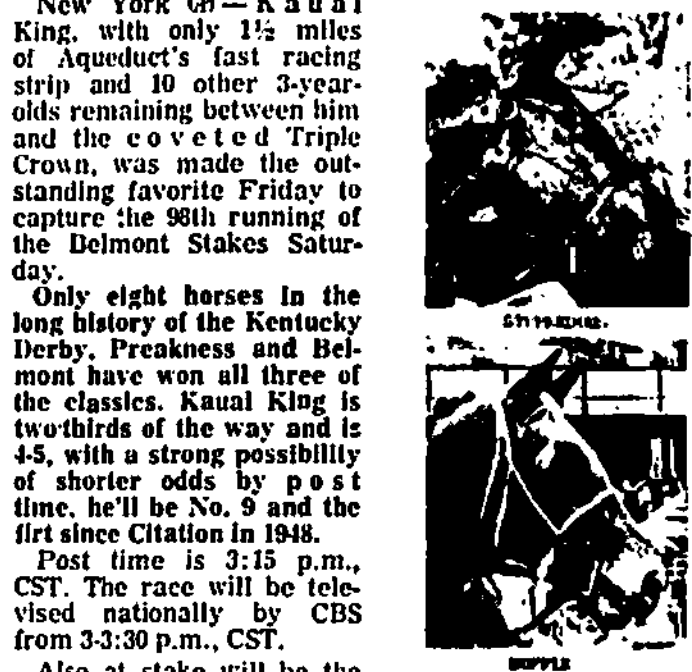

Also at stake will be the richest Belmont purse ever. With 11 starters, twice as many as were expected after Kauai King whipped the best of the division in the Derby and Preakness, the Belmont will be worth $161,450.

The winner will get $117,700. Kauai King, with a record of eight victories and one second in 10 starts, this year, already has a 1966 bank account of $369,027.

The Maryland-bred son of Native Dancer is by far the richest horse in the race.

There was a one surprise as entries were made Friday morning. Trainer Frank White called from Delaware Park with the entry of Raymond Guest's Jolly Jet.

No rider was listed but Nick Shuk has been astride the son of Jet Action in all three of his races. Jolly Jet, who did not race as a 2-year-old, is unbeaten at distances from six furlongs to 1 1/16 miles. But the track handicapper lost no time in making him an outsider in the pre-race odds.

Kauai King, who wound up his training by blowing out three eighths of a mile in 36 seconds Friday morning, drew No. 6 post position.

"That's fine," said owner Michael Ford after disclosing that he had caught the King in 36-3.

"If we are beaten we'll have no excuse," Ford added. "He has come up to the race in perfect condition—both physically and temperamentally."

Don Brumfield, who has ridden the $42,000 yearling purchase in his last 10 races, again will be in the saddle.

Others entered, with post positions, were: 1, Rehabilitate; 2, Jolly Jet; 3, Fleet Shoe; 4, Highest Honors; 5, Amherst; 6, Fast Count; 7, Stupendous; 8, Advocate; 9, Buffle and 11, Valam.

Kauai King stands out so much in pre-race calculations that the second choice, Stupendous, was rated no better than 4-1. Stupendous has tried Kauai King for size three times in the last six weeks and failed each time.

The Eddie Nely - trained son of Bold Ruler was second in Bowler's Gold Cup, beaten 1 1/2 lengths, and runner-up in the Preakness, 1 1/2 lengths back. He'll be ridden by Braulio Baeza, who won the Belmont with lightly regarded Shaluck in 1961 and with Chateaugay in 1963.

Four other members of the Belmont field found Kauai King too tough to handle in either the Derby or Preakness or both. They are Amherst, a come-from-behind performer who turned in a sizzling six-furlong workout Wednesday; Fleet Shoe from California; the evenly-gaited Rehabilitate and Advocate, runner-up in the Derby but 11 lengths back in the Preakness.

The track oddsmaker pegged Amherst as the 8-1 third choice with the swift running Highest Honors next in line at 12-1. He rated the others no better than 15-1, including Buffle, trained by 85-year-old Max Hirsch who has saddled four Belmont winners.

With a prospect of a fast track the expected crowd of some 60,000 may well see the swiftest Belmont since it was switched to Aqueduct from Belmont Park in 1963. Quadrangle, in 1964, and J. Hail to All last year, each were clocked in 2:28 2/5. The stake record of 2:26 3/5 was set by Gallant Fox in 1930.

California also has a big race and a big field. Fifteen horses, including five Argentine-bred challengers, were entered in the $120,000 California at Hollywood Park.

Native Diver a California-bred 7-year-old, will carry top weight of 127 pounds. Although he will spot the field 12 or more pounds, the distance of 1 1/16 miles is to his liking and he figures to add another big score to his record.

The Argentine-bred are Make Money, Attention III, Aurelius II, Tronador and Gamlin. The others in the field are Nasharco, Sledge, Pelegrin, Switchback, Travel Orb, Ask Father, Real Good Deal, Whit's Pride and Ferris.

Other leading races on the Saturday program include the $15,000-added Oceanport of five furlongs at Monmouth Park; the 1 1/16 mile, $25,000-added Kent for 3-year-olds at Delaware Park; the 6 1/2 furlong, $25,000-added Olympia handicap at Arlington Park; and the one-mile $20,000-added Michigan Trial Derby at Hazel Park.

Nebraska City, Optimists Tie

The Lincoln Optimists and Nebraska City battled 12 innings at Sherman Field Friday night, only to have the game end in a 4-4 tie.

The game was tied at 2-2 after nine innings. Nebraska City scored one run in the top of the tenth but the Optimists matched it to keep the game going.

Again in the 12th the two clubs swapped runs, making it a 4-4 deadlock. The game was finally called in accordance with a rule which will not permit an inning to start after 11:30.

Bill Fagler was the game's leading hitter, going four-for-six to account for half of the Optimists' hits. Five pitchers saw action.

Big 8 Athletes Boost 3 Fields

By Associated Press

Big Eight track athletes, enjoying perhaps the best season in league history, will be among the standouts at three major meets Saturday—the district federation at Houston, the central collegiate at Notre Dame and the Compton, Calif., Invitational.

Oklahoma State will be at the district meet with seven standouts. Oklahoma and Nebraska also will be strongly represented. Kansas and Missouri will send strong teams to Notre Dame, Kansas State may have men at both meets.

Jim Ryun, the Kansas freshman, will be rested and in prime condition for an assault on the miles record at Compton, scene of his 3:59 mile in 1964 — the first sub-4-minute mile ever by a high school boy. Ryun already holds the American record of 3:55.3. The meet record is 3:55.5 at Compton. The world record is 3:53.6.

Big Eight athletes lead the nation in four events and are second in four others in the latest national rankings for this season, covering all NCAA and NAIA track men, post-graduates running for clubs or unattached, and marks made by schools using freshmen and four-year men.

The national leaders from the Big Eight are Oklahoma's Ron Tull, 7-1 1/2 high jumper, the Kansas four-mile relay team of 16:36.9, and the 3:55.8 mile and 8:25.2 two-mile by Ryun, the latter an American record.

National runners-up are John Perry, Oklahoma State, 1:47.7 half mile; Dave Crook, Nebraska, 45.9 quarter; Kansas 9:41.4 distance medley; and Nebraska's Charlie Greene, 9.3 in the 100.

In all, the Big Eight has 34 teams or individuals ranked in the top 10 in 14 events. The best showing in an individual event is the 850, with Perry second, teammate Jim McCall and Nebraska's Peter Scott tied for third at 1:47.8, and Missouri's Terry Thompson ninth at 1:48.6.

In the mile, the league stands 1:45-10, in the 440 2:3, the two-mile 1:10, the 3,000 steeplechase 4:5, the high jump 1-5, the pole vault seventh and the 220 ninth. The league is 1-4-7-6 in the four mile relay, 5-6-9, in the mile relay, 2-3-8 in the distance medley and 3-8 in the spring medley. The ratings are compiled by Track and Field News.

Hastings Golfers To NAAI Tourney

Hastings (UPI) — The undefeated Hastings College golf squad will seek national honors in the 15th annual NAAI Tournament at Shawnee, Okla., June 7-10.

Dr. William McCall, who coached the squad to the Nebraska College Conference championship, has selected Gerald Fisher, John Horsham, Bob Murphy, Doug Cary, and Charlie Burgett to represent Hastings.

Competition will begin Tuesday.

New York (P)—Kauai King, with only 1½ miles of Aqueduct's fast racing strip and 10 other 3-year-olds remaining between him and the coveted Triple Crown, was made the outstanding favorite Friday to capture the 98th running of the Belmont Stakes Saturday.

Only eight horses in the long history of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont have won all three of the classics. Kauai King is two-thirds of the way and is 4-5, with a strong possibility of shorter odds by post time, he'll be No. 9 and the first since Citation in 1948.

Post time is 3:15 p.m., CST. The race will be televised nationally by CBS from 3:30 p.m., CST.

Also at stake will be the richest Belmont purse ever. With 11 starters, twice as many as were expected after Kauai King whipped the best of the division in the Derby and Preakness, the Belmont will be worth $161,450.

The winner will get $117,700. Kauai King, with a record of eight victories and one second in 10 starts, this year, already has a 1966 bank account of $369,027.

The Maryland-bred son of Native Dancer is by far the richest horse in the race.

day morning. Trainer Frank White called from Delaware Park with the entry of Raymond Guest's Jolly Jet.

No rider was listed but Nick Shuk has been astride the son of Jet Action in all three of his races. Jolly Jet, who did not race as a 2-year-old, is unbeaten at distances from six furlongs to 1 1-16 miles. But the track handicapper lost no time in making him an outsider in the pre-race odds.

Kauai King, who wound up his training by blowing out three eighths of a mile in 36 seconds Friday morning, drew No. 6 post position.

"That's fine," said owner Michael Ford after disclosing that he had caught the King in 36 3-5.

"If we are beaten we'll have no excuse," Ford added. "He has come up to the race in perfect condition—both physically and temperamentally."

Don Brumfield, who has ridden the $42,000 yearling purchase in his last 10 races, again will be in the saddle.

Others entered, with post positions, were: 1, Rehabilitate; 2, Jolly Jet; 3, Fleet Shoe; 4, Highest Honors; 5, Amberoid; 7, Fast Count 8, Stupendous; 9, Advocate; 10, Buffle and 11, Valam.

Kauai King stands out so much in pre-race calculations that the second choice, Stupendous, was rated no better than 4-1. Stupendous has tried Kauai King for size three times in the last six weeks and failed each time.

The Eddie Nely-trained son of Bold Ruler was second in Bowie's Gold Cup, beaten 1¼ lengths, and ridden by Braulio Baeza, who won the Belmont with lightly regarded Sherluck in 1961 and with Chateaugay in 1963.

Four other members of the Belmont field found Kauai King too tough to handle in either the Derby or Preakness or both. They are Amberoid, a come-from-behind performer who turned in a sizzling six-furlong workout Wednesday; Fleet Shoe from California; the evenly-gaited Rehabilitate and Advocate, runner-up in the Derby but 11 lengths back in the Preakness.

The track oddsmaker pegged Amberoid as the 8-1 third choice with the swift running Highest Honors next in line at 12-1. He rated the others no better than 15-1, including Buffle, trained by 85-year-old Max Hirsch who has saddled four Belmont winners.

With a prospect of a fast track the expected crowd of some 60,000 may well see the swiftest Belmont since it was switched to Aqueduct from Belmont Park in 1963. Quadrangle, in 1964, and Hail to All last year, each were clocked in 2:28 2-5. The stake record of 2:26 3-5 was set by Gallant Man in 1957.

California also has a big race and a big field. Fifteen horses, including five Argentine-bred challengers, were entered in the $120,600 Californian at Hollywood Park.

Native Diver a California-bred 7-year-old, will carry top weight of 127 pounds. Although he will spot the field 12 or more pounds, the distance of 1 1-16 miles is to his liking and he figures to add another big score to his record.

The Argentine-bred are Make Money, Attention III, Aurelius II, Tronado and Gamin. The others in the field are Nasharok, Sledge, Pelegrin, Switchback, Travel Orb, Ask Father, Real Good Deal, Whit's Pride and Ferris.

Other leading races on the Saturday program include the $15,000-added Oceanport of five furlongs at Monmouth Park; the 1 1-16 mile, $25,000-added Kent for 3-year-olds at Delaware Park; the 6½ furlong, $25,000-added Olympia handicap at Arlington Park; and the one-mile $20,000-added Michigan Trial Derby at Hazel Park.

COWBOYS GET CWS BERTH

O-State Rally Brings Victory

... ST. LOUIS BLOWS 3-0 LEAD

Stillwater, Okla. (UPI)—Oklahoma State recovered from an erratic start Friday and rallied to beat St. Louis, 4-3, for the District 5 NCAA title and a berth in the College Baseball World Series at Omaha, Neb.

It was the second straight win for the Cowboys, who won the first game in the best-of-three series Thursday, 4-3.

Defensive errors gave St. Louis a 3-0 lead after the first two innings Friday, but the Cowboys, behind relief pitcher Frank Warrington shut St. Louis out the rest of the way.

Warrington, who got credit for the win, dominated St. Louis with excellent control during the six innings he was on the mound. He threw only Oklahoma State got two runs in the fourth and then won it with two more in the sixth. Wayne Weatherly doubled to open the sixth. Don Kuykendall walked. With one out, Tracey Freney hit sharply to second and the ball got away from Al York. Weatherly and Kuykendall scored on the play.

St. Louis threatened in the ninth. Jim Murphy singled and Tom Daly was safe at first on a bunt. Both moved to second and third on a throwing error on the play.

With one out and runners at second and third, pinch-hitter Gary Baumstark popped to third and Carl Gentile lined to left.

Big 8 Athletes Boost 3 Fields

... NU STRONGLY REPRESENTED

By Associated Press

Big Eight track athletes, enjoying perhaps the best season in league history, will be among the standouts at three major meets Saturday—the district federation at Houston, the central collegiate at Notre Dame and the Compton, Calif., Invitational.

Oklahoma State will be at the district meet with seven standouts. Oklahoma and Nebraska also will be strongly represented. Kansas and Missouri will send strong teams to Notre Dame. Kansas State may have men at both meets.

Jim Ryun, the Kansas freshman, will be rested and in prime condition for an assault on the miles record at Compton, scene of his 3:59 mile in 1964 — the first sub-4-minute mile ever by a high school boy. Ryun already holds the American record of 3:55.3. The meet record is 3:55.5 at Compton. The world record is 3:53.6.

Big Eight athletes lead the nation in four events and are second in four others in the latest national rankings for this season, covering all NCAA and NAIA track men, post-graduates running for clubs or unattached, and marks made by schools using freshmen and four-year men.

The national leaders from the Big Eight are Oklahoma's Ron Tull, 7-1½ high jumper, the Kansas four-mile relay team of 16:36.9, and the 3:55.8 mile and 8:25.2 two-mile by Ryun, the latter an American record.

National runners-up are John Perry, Oklahoma State, 1:47.7 half mile; Dave Crook, Nebraska, 45.9 quarter; Kansas 9:41.4; distance medley; and Nebraska's Charlie Greene, 9.3 in the 100.

In all, the Big Eight has 34 teams or individuals ranked in the top 10 in 14 events. The best showing in an individual event is the 850, with Perry second, teammate Jim Metcalf and Nebraska's Peter Scott tied for third at 1:47.8 and Missouri's Terry Thompson ninth at 1:48.6.

In the mile, the league stands 1:45-10, in the 440 2-3, the two-mile 1-10, the 3,000 steeplechase 4-5, the high jump 1-5, the pole vault seventh and the 220 ninth. The league is 1-4-7-5 in the four mile relay, 5-6-9, in the mile relay, 5-6-9, in the mile relay, 2-3-8 in the distance medley and 3-8 in the spring medley. The ratings are compiled by Track and Field News.

Nebraska City, Optimists Tie

The Lincoln Optimists and Nebraska City battled 12 innings at Sherman Field Friday night, only to have the game end in a 4-4 tie.

The game was tied at 2-2 after nine innings. Nebraska City scored one run in the top of the tenth but the Optimists matched it to keep the game going.

Again in the 12th the two clubs swapped runs, making it a 4-4 deadlock. The game was finally called in accordance with a rule which will not permit any inning to start after 11:30.

Bill Fagler was the game's leading hitter, going four-for-six to account for half of the Optimists' hits. Five pitchers saw action.

-PROBLEM GROWING WORSE- Lack Of Sleep Bothers Clemente More Than Age

New York (P)—Old age doesn't bother Roberto Clemente. Lack of sleep does.

"I'm getting old now," the 31-year-old Pittsburgh right-fielder said. "But I take good care of myself. The only thing I hope I do is sleep well."

The three-time National League batting champion didn't have any trouble sleeping in his first 21 years. Then the problem started.

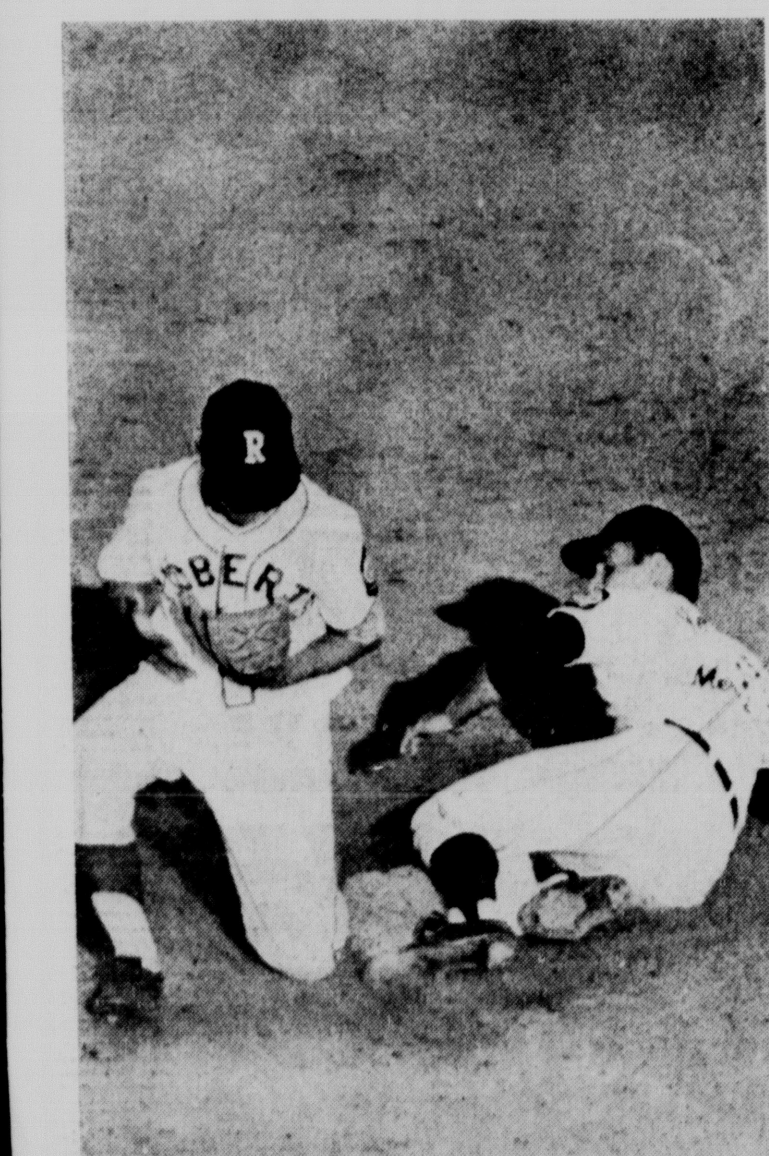

"First, I had a sore back," Clemente explained. "Then I started getting real nervous. I had a nervous stomach. They told me, 'You got nothing. It's all in your head.' But then I started having trouble sleeping."

The problem has grown steadily worse. Take, for example, the past week.

"We came in from Houston last Sunday night," Clemente said during the Pirates' visit to New York. "We got to Pittsburgh at one o'clock in the morning, and I got to my

-Drought- Cattle Aid On Agenda

Governor Must Act On Request

State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Commission (ASCS) director Hans Jensen said Friday he will seek federal relief for cattle herds threatened by drought.

He said the state ASCS disaster committee will review his recommendation, then submit it to Gov. Frank Morrison.

The governor, in turn, must decide whether to present the request to the U.S. Agriculture Department, which is authorized to release diverted acres for grazing cattle.

Jensen said his office has received disaster relief petitions from Thayer, Jefferson, Pawnee, Webster and Franklin counties. A letter of intent came from Gage County.

"We will act on these as soon as possible," he said. "This severe dry weather is becoming more of a problem each day it continues."

Jensen described the drought as widespread. He said cattle are fast becoming underfed and undernourished due to the lack of good feed.

Wheat Also Hit

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics and county agents also report crop prospects are endangered by the dry weather. Winter wheat is starting to deteriorate, forcing some farmers to plow the crop under.

Jensen said the drought conditions will worsen if temperatures climb without attendant rainfall.

"The only thing that has saved many farmers so far is the cool weather we have been having for this time of year. This has served as some what of a check against the drought," he said.

Soil moisture is way below normal levels in many parts of the state, but especially in the southern half, Jensen added.

"This is due mainly to the dry winter combined with the dry spring," he said.

Going to move? Then notify the Circulation Dept. so you won't miss your paper. Be sure to give both old and new address.

Couple Here From Tokyo To See Daughter Graduate

Thousands of proud parents will attend University of Nebraska commencement exercises Saturday, but few, if any, will have proven it by traveling farther than Col. and Mrs. Robert F. Hemphill.

The colonel, an air attaché in Tokyo, and his wife arrived from Tokyo, Japan, Thursday to watch their daughter, Virginia, graduate with distinction from Teachers College.

The Hemphill family, well known in several Nebraska communities, is college-oriented and has close ties to the University of Nebraska.

From Blair
Col. Hemphill, originally from Blair, received his bachelor's degree from the University in 1940 before studying law at the University of Denver. He received a master's degree at American University in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Hemphill, the former Betty Ann Roach, originally from Scottsbluff, graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1941. She received a master's degree from George Washington University.

Virginia, who has received a graduate fellowship to attend the University of Indiana, intends to major in Japanese and Chinese and plans a career as a translator.

On To Yale
Following Virginia's graduation, the parents will attend the commencement ceremonies of their son, Robert, who receives a bachelor's degree from Yale University.

A younger son, David, is accompanying the family.

387-Page Thesis Calls Sen. Butler 'Manipulator'

From the 387 pages of a University of Nebraska doctoral thesis in history, the late U.S. Sen. Hugh Butler emerges as "a clever, crafty political manipulator" whose mastery of organization usually defeated his Nebraska challengers even before they faced him in public contest.

The study is the work of Justus F. Pau, 28, who received his baccalaureate degree from Doane College, Butler's alma mater, and his master's from the University of Wisconsin. Paul will receive his Ph.D. at Nebraska's commencement Saturday and will teach at Wisconsin State University, Stevens Point, this fall.

Acknowledging that Hugh Butler "was a philanthropist, farmer, grain dealer, civic leader and many other things to many people," Paul confined his study to the senator as a politician.

In Paul's view, Butler the politician "was determined to fight for those things in which he believed, and to do what was necessary to elect himself and other Republican candidates. Once in, he spared no efforts in assuring that he would be re-elected."

Never Wavered
Paul declares that Butler never wavered in serving two basic political attitudes—economy in government and nonintervention in the affairs of the rest of the world.

As a young man Butler decided to become a politician but restrained overt action for many years. His maneuverings paid off in 1936 when he finally emerged on the open political stage as Republican national committeeman, a post he won by making sure there would be no competition.

As national committeeman Butler built a machine that was to carry him to victory over all comers for the rest of his life. Even as he died of a stroke in Washington on July 1, 1954, his machine, Paul reports, was carrying Butler's man, Carl T. Curtis, to the U.S. Senate, rolling over both former Gov. Robert Crosby and David Martin of Kearney who later became a congressman.

Only on two notable occasions did luck, more than planning, figure in Butler's steady advance. Once, early in his career, Butler had dealings with the remnants of the Ku Klux Klan in Nebraska but his use of the group never became known publicly and he never had to face the criticism that undoubtedly would have arisen.

Fate beamed on Butler a second time in 1940 when both the late Adam McMullen and Arthur J. Weaver, former governors, opposed him for the Republican senatorial nomination. Had McMullen stayed out of the race, most election experts believe Weaver would have beaten Butler.

Shaped Wherry's Career

Paul's study suggests that Butler, intent on strengthening his party, probably helped to shape the career of the late U.S. Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry. In 1937 Butler apparently delivered the senior presidency of the GOP Founders Day organization to Wherry in exchange for Wherry's consent to give up the role of a party maverick.

Paul's picture also shows Butler as an astute assessor of public sentiment—he was quick to detect signs of rising anti-New Dealism in Nebraska and to plan accordingly—and as a canny guardian of his own position. Paul cites instance after instance when Butler identified and successfully thwarted the plans of rising challengers who might have threatened his office and power.

Paul's well-documented account sometimes makes Butler appear ruthless and slick but never ineffective. He was so effective in fact that all of the Nebraska governors who challenged him for his Senate seat—the late R. L. Cochran in 1940, the late Dwight Griswold in 1946, and Val Peterson in 1952—were really beaten by Butler's preliminary strategies before their fights began.

NASON ON EDUCATION:

Boy's Low Test Scores Hurt Semester Grades

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Dear Dr. Nason:

Do you feel that high schools place too much weight on examinations? Our son dutifully prepares all of his homework and receives high grades on it. However, he does badly on examinations and gets D's and F's. Consequently, his semester grades are usually D's and C's.

Is this fair?

N.T., Camden, N.J.

Answer:

The D's and C's your son receives are undoubtedly not a fair measure of his knowledge of the courses. However, test-taking has an important place in industry as well as in education.

Your son can control his tensions by filling his mind with plans as to exactly how he is going to complete a test. For example, if the test is a true-false one, he should plan to give his full attention to the first question and answer it the best he can. He should then dismiss it from his mind and turn his full attention to the second question — and so on through the test.

In a multiple choice test, he should read the question thoroughly before trying to match an answer to it. With his mind filled with a predetermined plan of procedure for whatever type test he is taking, the thoughts which produce pressures and tensions will be pushed to the background.

Dear Dr. Nason:

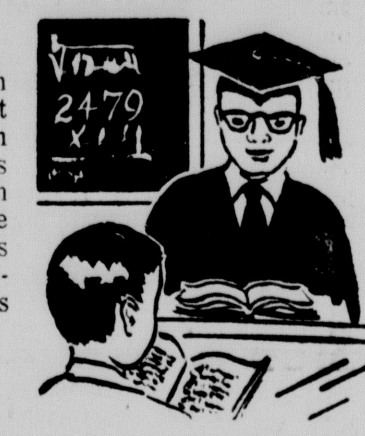

My son, attending an engineering college in a northeastern university just outside our state, did fairly well his freshman year. But he did poorly the first semester of his sophomore year and was put on probation. During the second semester, he did not improve and received a notice of dismissal.

How do we go about continuing his education as a liberal arts student with perhaps some engineering courses? Surely he had some potential to have been admitted to the college in the first place.

Mrs. D.H.S., Queens, N.Y.

Answer:

Engineering subjects require a different type of study than liberal arts subjects. The way in which your son studies, rather than his lack of ability, probably accounts for his failure in the engineering field. The study of mathematics and engineering ing requires the habit of studying for complete understanding.

If your son is still interested in engineering, he should review his freshman work on his own with determination to get precise and complete understanding of each concept. It may take several months. He will then be ready to re-enter an engineering school and carry out his work at a high level.

Dear Dr. Nason:

This year, in our school district, the board of education started an organized system of school volunteers in our six elementary schools. Now we are making plans for the coming year to expand this system to junior and senior high schools. Under-achievers and trouble students, especially those students transferred from other schools, will be the major problem rather than drop-outs. Each volunteer works directly under the child's guidance counselor and occasionally under the school psychologist, too. But is that all there is to it?

Mrs. V.E., Slingerlands, N.Y.

Answer:

An interested friend is a necessary element in bringing about change for the better in the type student with whom your school volunteers will work. Once the student realizes that someone considers him a worthwhile individual and wants him to succeed, he is ready for the first step.

The volunteer should encourage the student to start work on the solution of his scholastic problems one at a time.

Cash For CD Unit In Roads Building OK'd

The office of Civil Defense reported in Washington Friday approval of a federal matching grant of $99,581 to Nebraska for construction of an emergency operating center in the proposed new State Department of Roads headquarters building at 14th and Burnham.

State Engineer John Hossack said the state had been asked to incorporate the civil defense capabilities into the building and the federal grant is designed to compensate for the cost of a special basement room addition and some extra hardening protection built into the bottom floor for sheltering purposes.

Under the statewide civil defense plan, the state is divided into eight regions corresponding to the Highway Department's eight divisions, using the same headquarters, with division engineers serving as coordinators.

Lincoln serves as headquarters for two of the Highway Department divisions.

Construction of the four-story Department of Roads building has been delayed by the fact bids opened last month turned out higher than expected. The apparent low bid totaled $1,962,344, compared with an architectural estimate of $1,740,000.

The 1965 Legislature appropriated $1.8 million of Highway Department revenue for construction and equipping of the building.

Hossack said efforts currently are being made to make revisions in the plans so as to bring construction costs in line with the appropriation.

The federal grant, announced through Rep. Clair Callan, D-Nebr., will help the financial cause, Hossack said.

Withdrawal Appeal
Berlin (UPI)—The East German Communist Party newspaper Neues Deutschland appealed to the West German Socialist Party to demand the withdrawal of American troops from Viet Nam. The Socialists are holding a party convention in the West German city of Dortmund.

The Way Grows Much Brighter

When God Gives Us Our Marching Orders

The VERDICT!

Some things are so final. One of them is judgment. But whether we like it or not, it is coming. The child at school knows a test is set—he must make ready for it. The man at his bench knows the work must get done, and on time. All life should help us face the coming verdict. The wise person gets the better of it by setting his own judgment at the close of every day. Life is made up of years, of months, of days.

Why wait for luck or chance which might make an escape possible? YOU CAN'T BEAT THE VERDICT. God will allow you to reap only what you have sown. You write your own verdict... God announces it. Go to church every Sunday. Confess your sins to God. Write a clean page. Keep the record clear. Then the verdict will be well with your soul.
